Once More East to West
A Brave Business Man
The Last of Baby Doe Tabor
Rocky Mountain Sky

Las Vegas, New Mexico, March 10—Fine weather, beautiful climate, going through high Colorado toward the Pacific coast, up to the mouth of the tunnel at Raton, New Mexico, more than 7000 feet above sea level, and on into this high country, men are cheerful, in spite of depression. For instance, at Trinidad, a mile to the east, this conversation took place between two "business men," one, the writer, the other a small boy, offering lead pencils for sale:

"How old are you?"

"Eight."

"What is your name?"

"Paul."

"What is your last name?"

"Reid."

"How many pencils do you sell in a day?"

"None."

He sold one then, and his expression changed to a smile.

Denver, perched one mile high of to the north, sends the end of a romantic story of old days when men got rich in a hurry, and poor as quickly.

Far back in the early days when silver and gold were plentiful and money "easy" everybody knew H. A. W. Tabor, the silver king, United States senator, friend of grand opera, poor at the end of his life, and everybody knew of his wife, whose interesting name was Baby Doe Tabor.

She saw her husband grow rich, quarrelled with him when they were rich, saw him grow poor, wept on his bier, never forgot his last words, "Don't let go of the Matchless mine."

For thirty-six years, since the "silver king's" death in 1899, Baby Doe Tabor watched near the mouth of the Matchless mine, growing poorer all the while, helped by heirs of other miners made rich by her husband, and fortunate enough to keep their money.

Now Baby Doe has been found dead, her body frozen stiff, all alone on the floor of her little shack at the mine mouth. Old, worn, perhaps hungry, she was a different "Baby Doe" from the one covered with furs and laces, who shone brilliantly in the reflected glory of her "silver king," sitting in the gorgeous box, always reserved for her in the Tabor Opera House. The Denver Post says truly, "The determination and courage of her later tragic years were a match for the beauty and sparkle of her carefree early womanhood."

Thanks to the Rev. Father Horgan, Catholic priest of Leadville, Mrs. Tabor's body will be moved to Denver, and there friends co-operating, she will be buried beside the body of her husband.

His dust will be moved "from the old weed-grown Calvary Cemetery and put in a grave next that of his wife."

Father Horgan testifies that the "silver king's" widow "was always devout and kept a rosary in her cabin."

The church that she attended at Leadville has the highest steeple in the world, its point two miles above sea-level.

Perhaps she and her husband are side by side now in the spirit, far from the "Matchless mine." Also, in the days of ardent prospecting old miners may ask themselves "WHY did Tabor tell his wife never to give up the Matchless mine, from which he took carloads of almost pure silver." Others may uncover and enjoy the wealth over which "Baby Doe" watched for so many years, gradually growing old. If he were alive, Bret Harte could write a good poem about all that.

Slowly, two big engines pulling this train, puff and groan up the steep grade to the tunnel, one thousand feet above Trinidad, passing Wootton, 7526 feet high, where Dick Wootton ran his road house in pioneer days, and collected toll from all comers, until the railroad came.

Once again, note that unless you have seen the sky in these high Rocky Mountains, you have never seen the real sky, or the most beautiful sky.

It is brilliantly blue, vast, high, with white clouds drifting far apart. The air is mild, although a brook beside the railroad track is frozen. Track and train turn and twist, "to make the grade."

Through a central window you see the locomotives at one end, and the observation car at the other end, this train winding round like a snake up the mountainside.

Beside the track runs a smooth highway with grades much too steep for any locomotive, and up those steep grades small automobiles fly with ease, 50 and 60 miles an hour, passing the powerful double engines as though they were not moving.

Everything is ready for the man who wants to travel and become acquainted with his country, whether he comes through the air above these white clouds, by passenger train, offering the maximum of comfort and safety, by private auto-

DELAY In Hultman BATTLE

OUSTER FIGHT ON MARCH 20

Eugene C. Hultman was given a new lease on his political life today.

Governor Curley announced postponement for one week of his move to remove Hultman as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission.

It followed a conference the governor had with Attorney John P. Feeney, who will handle the case against Hultman for the governor.

Announcing the postponement, the Governor said:

"It has been decided to postpone until a week from Wednesday the removal hearing of Mr. Hultman. Mr. Feeney has some very important work that will interfere with the plans to remove Mr. Hultman this week."

The governor branded as "very interesting" reports that former Governor Ely had been asked to defend Hultman in the ouster proceedings.

The former governor declined the task. Attorney Clarence A. Barnes of Mansfield, who broke up the famous Albany baseball pool in 1928 was retained by Hultman instead.

Barnes is known as a fiery attorney. Clashes between him and Attorney Feeney are anticipated when the hearing finally gets under way.

R. I. GIANT DEAD, Build Huge Coffin

Providence, March 11—Nicola "Big Nick" Tartaglione, weighing 619 pounds, "fat man" of circus, vaudeville and movies fame, died today.

Undertakers began construction of a special casket—35 inches wide, 34 inches deep and six feet, eight inches long.

Tartaglione, survived by eight children, was arrested several years ago in a liquor case and a special cot was built for him. Unable to get through the cell doors, he slept in the corridor.

THE QUESTION: WILL BRUNO BURN?

KILGALLEN GIVES REPLY

James L. Kilgallen, famous reporter for International News Service, in this new series tells untold stories of the Hauptmann case and makes interesting, revelations which cast new light on the "crime of the century." He opens the series by replying to quest ons persons most often ask now concerning Hauptmann, then proceeds to disclose new information.

New York, March 9 —People ask me: "Will Hauptmann die in the electric chair?"

If so—"How will he die?" Courageously? Or like a weakling?

Also they want to know:

"Did he actually kidnap the Lindbergh baby?"

And—

"Did he do the job alone?"

Also—

"Is there any chance that he will make a confession?"

James L. Kilgallen

These are questions in which people everywhere seem interested. As to the answers, I have my own opinions based on my experience with the strange case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

I "covered" the Hauptmann case from the time he was arrested in New York city last September until he was sent to the death house in Trenton, N. J., where he is now confined as "Convict No. 17,400," sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. I wrote approximately half a million words on his trial at Flemington, N. J. alone. I saw him day after day for six weeks—at close range. I was fortunate enough to be the first newspaper man to interview him in his cell. That interview took place on Feb. 14, 1935, the day after his conviction. Talking to him face to face for 40 minutes I naturally had a rare opportunity to study him.

In spite of all this close range contact with Hauptmann, he

MILLENS In New Plea TO U. S.

ASK SUPREME COURT REVIEW

Sheriff Samuel Capen arrived at East Cambridge courthouse today at noon, seeking a conference with Judge Nelson W. Brown relative to steps toward removing Murton and Irving Millen and Abe Faber to State Prison.

Another "last move" was made today in behalf of Murton and Irving Millen.

Condemned to die in the electric chair with Abe Faber, the Millen brothers sought a United States Supreme Court review of their previously unsuccessful attempt to obtain a shift in their case from state to federal jurisdiction.

In a petition filed today in Washington, the Millens made what probably may be the last stand in their fight against death.

The petition sought to review a decision of the First United States District Court of Appeals, which held in Boston that it lacked jurisdiction.

In their appellate court petition, the brothers, convicted with Faber in the Needham bank robbery-police slayings, had charged they could not obtain a fair trial in superior court in Dedham.

Still in Jail

Today's petition to the highest court said the question involved is whether a petition for removal under the judicial code alleging a hostile public and denial of "civil rights" under Massachusetts law provided for trial without jury in all cases except capital cases and where such petition for removal is denied" is a proper subject for review on appeal.

Meanwhile, the Millens are still in Dedham jail, with no one apparently knowing when they will be moved to state prison, except at the start of the 10-day period now provided in the statutes for removal of condemned prisoners to Charlestown.

The only break in the day's routine came when Princess Millen, sister of the two condemned men, telephoned the jail and asked that her visit and that of others of the family be postponed from today until tomorrow.

Sheriff Capen granted the request and then left for Cambridge.

Murton Millen was reported today to be apathetic to a possibility that he might be allowed to see his brief bride, Norma Brighton Millen, before he dies.

Guards who took to Murton a message that Norma had changed her mind about wishing to see him said Murton "just grunted and turned his face to the wall."

To Marry — But When?

Friends of this Chicago girl, Rosemary Ames, who had a quick rise in the movies, are agreed that she's contemplating a second marriage, with Abner J. Stillwell, Chicago bank executive, the prospective bridegroom. The wedding, however, can't come right away, for Rosemary's divorce from Bertie Meyer, London producer, isn't final yet.

MEXICAN Youth Barred AT VATICAN

Vatican City, March 11—Protests of a Mexican student recently denied an audience with Pope Pius XI gave rise to hastily quashed rumors today that the young man had plotted to "assassinate" the Pontiff.

The student, Carlos Margain, returning home after a chemistry course in Berlin, went to the Vatican on March 6 and asked to be received with other pilgrims.

Authorities refused, saying he did not have the necessary recommendations.

Margain protested, guards said, and was escorted out of Vatican City and turned over to Italian police. A stiletto was found inside his shirt.

15th Baby for Woman, 38

Cambridge Doctor on Job at All Births

The stork paid its 15th visit within 24 years to 38-year-old Mrs. Mary Priest of Andrew square, Cambridge, today in Broadway Maternity Hospital, Cambridge.

The baby girl was delivered by Dr. Thomas H. Eaton, head of the hospital, who has attended Mrs. Priest at the birth of all 15 children.

Mrs. Priest, already a grandmother, was said by physicians to be doing well.

6 SOB At Victim's BIER

SAD MOTHER FORGIVES

Brockton, March 11—The six little boys who burned him at the stake will carry Eddie Smith to his grave.

Here, today, the game that turned to tragedy had an epilogue of boyish tears and a mother's understanding.

First to stand with his mother at the bier of the nine-year-old Brockton boy "burned at the stake" were the six playmates who inadvertently caused his death.

Saturday playing cannibal, they pretended to burn him at the stake—did burn him at the stake when flames caught his clothes and they could not cut him loose.

Sob at Bier

Today white-lipped, solemn, seared, they appeared at his North Montello street home soon after arrival of the body, and Mrs. Michael Smith—mother of eight other little Smiths—escorted them to the casket. They cried there.

Then arrangements were made for them to act as pallbearers Wednesday morning when Eddie is buried. There will be a requiem high mass in St. Mary's Polish Catholic Church at 9:30. Burial will be in Calvary.

The immensity of death suddenly loomed before Eddie's six playmates in his darkened home this morning when they filed in and asked to be allowed to see him.

Mother Forgives

They wondered not only about death, but about the attitude of Eddie's grieving mother.

She soon set them at rest. When they had finished their prayers at the casket she told them:

"You weren't to blame. Be careful of matches. Cause no one sorrow if you can help."

That was all.

Like all mothers, she is large in wisdom. She grieves the loss of h- little fellow, but thinks God, in His infinite wisdom, took Edward away. That's all.

The six other boys were to have appeared in juvenile court today. Perhaps they will be brought in a week from today, to face technical charges of manslaughter, or as delinquents. Probably they will not appear at all.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith sat by the boy's bedside for 20 hours.

Eddie remained conscious the whole time.

Through all these 20 hours of torture he whimpered not once. When he could muster up the strength he smiled at his mother. And he thought of his playmates. He said:

"They were only playing. They didn't mean to do it."

Later he said:

"I'm all right."

Then Eddie smiled a little, and died.

BUDD Girl Slayer CRINGES

PICK 4 JURORS TO TRY FISH

By International News Service

White Plains, N. Y., March 11—Four of the 12 jurors who must hear the horrid story of 10-year-old Grace Budd's murder, then decide the fate of Albert H. Fish, 65, were chosen today when court was adjourned for luncheon.

Twenty-two talesman were examined during the morning session, while the watery-eyed little defendant looked on in abject terror.

The State exercised four peremptory challenges, the defense one. Each side is allowed 30 such challenges.

Dressed in unpressed, baggy pants and a shapeless gray coat, Fish looked more the part of a harmless derelict than the crafty ogre who lured the little Budd girl from her home to deserted country mansion near here then hacked her to pieces to satisfy a strange and horrible blood lust.

He was still weak from an attempt to stab himself to death with a soupspoon in jail.

There was a mob outside the courthouse two hours before the trial commenced, but Justice Close limited attendance to 100, mindful of the hysterical incidents resulting from overcrowding at the Hauptmann trial in Flemington, N. J.

Alienists for the State have declared Fish legally sane; alienists for the defense will testify that he is insane.

Assistant District Attorney Elbert F. Gallagher, former football star, who is handling the prosecution, said the state has an ironclad case.

slain child will be among the first witnesses called to describe the manner in which Grace was enticed from her home on the afternoon of June 3, 1928.

New York police will relate how they finally caught Fish last December 13 by tracing taunting letters allegedly written by him to th distraught parents during the six years following the murder.

They will tell of the alleged confession from Fish which led to the abandoned house near here, where they found bones of the child in scattered burying places.

Three New York dentists will identify the slain child as Grace Budd, through dental fillings. The state plans to call 37 witnesses.

Defense Attorney James Dempsel of Peekskill, assigned by the court, will call 20 witnesses in an attempt to disprove the state's identification of the body and try to prove Fish insane.

PINK SLIP Repeal Passes FIRST TEST

By International News Service

Washington, March 11—Declaring publicity of income tax returns violates the privacy of citizens, Chairman O'Connor of New York, of the House rules committee, today brought up the bill repealing the "pink slip" provision of the revenue act.

O'Connor likened income publicity to the abolition of liquor.

"In various ways," he said, "these two provisions have been the greatest violation of privacy of our citizens that have ever been enacted."

TOWNSEND PLAN Defeat Admitted

Dr. Samuel M. Dick, local organizer of Townsend plan enthusiasts, today had admitted that there is no possibility of enacting the measure at the present session of Congress. At a meeting in Convention Hall Dr. Dick said that the proposed 2 per cent tax on wholesale business embodied in the bill was enough to "kill" it. He felt that not a single vote could be mustered for the measure in its present form.

Publication of Five Songs This Week

New York, March 11—Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani will make her debut next week before the American public as a song-writer, but she will be in Egypt and will have to listen to her songs for the first time mixed with short-wave radio static.

Lawrence Tibbett will sing the songs over the radio in the hope the Princess will be able to hear them, according to Elsa Maxwell, society party-idea magnate, who wrote the music.

The Princess' recently published volume of poetry was Miss Maxwell's inspiration, she said today. She explained:

"I couldn't find words to fit the songs I wanted to write. Most poets of today express only ruthlessness and hardness. But when I saw Barbara's volume of poems I knew I had found my lyric writer."

Miss Ma.well put the Princess words to music, and a music publisher sent them checks immediately. The advance royalty check was a "great thrill" for the Princess, Miss Maxwell said. She added that when the broadcast begins she will cable the Princess, so she can tune in.

There are five songs—A Chinese triology, "The Temple of Heaven," "Peng Chieh," and "Chu-Lu-Mai"—and "I Will Not Grieve" and "I Need No Song."

The Princess' interest in Chinese poetry is illustrated by the first and last verses of "Bowl of Jade":

I bring you a bowl of jade
Green as the mountain waters
For your slender hands to hold,
And infinitely old.
I bring you my poor dreams
Caught in a green jade bowl,
Carved untold years ago
Out of a Chinese soul.

Byrd 'Ladies' Succumb

Female Penguins Die on Way Up From Pole

Dunedin, N. Z., March 11—The lady penguins, captured by members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition to be given a new home in the United States, are pining away and dying so rapidly it is feared none will complete the voyage alive.

Twelve of the 20 "ladies" have fretted, drooped and died in their refrigerated pen on the deck of the expedition's flagship.

DOG RACE HEARING SET FOR MARCH 20

Despite State-wide opposition, expressed by some 500 opponents of dog racing from every corner of the Commonwealth, no definite action will be taken to repeal the dog racing law until Wednesday, March 20.

This was determined today by the House Committee on Rules, in executive session, after hearing a bill for the repeal of the dog racing law and six other bills of a related nature.

A hearing will be held on a bill filed by Representative Eugene H. Giroux of Somerville, at the request of William H. Gardner of Medford, sponsor of several bills opposed to horse and dog racing, for the repeal of the pari-mutuel horse and dog racing law.

The Gardner bill is before the joint committee on state administration. That committee has called a public hearing on the merits of repealing the two bills for March 20.

Representative Gustave W. Everberg of Woburn, sponsor of the bill for the limiting of dog racing, agreed with Speaker Saltonstall, chairman of the committee on rules, that his bill could be held in abeyance until after the state administration committee has acted on the Gardner bill.

The rules committee stated:

"It would be unwise at this time to admit the repeal of a bill already duplicated and amendments to a law which may be repealed."

The decision today was considered a victory by those interested in dog racing, but the opposition, turned aside today by a technicality, plans to muster its full strength for the hearing March 20.

At today's hearing, sentiment seemed overwhelming against any dog racing.

Only George C. Funk, president of the Bay State Greyhounds Association, and Ira Pollock, secretary of the Bristol County Kennel Club, raised their voices in favor of it.

The people knew what they were doing when they voted "yes" to the proposition of holding dog-racing in this State, they said, and they asked that the question be placed before the electorate again.

The overflow crowd heard Speaker Saltonstall explain that the only question before the committee today was suspension of the rules to admit these bills at the present sitting of the Legislature, since they were all filed after the legal time limit, Jan. 16.

Conrad Crooker, stormy petrel in both the horse and dog racing situations, stated that he favored repeal of the law unless the act can be made practical. He indicated that he did not think it practical.

Representatives, senators, clergymen, lawyers—all turned the fire of their attack against dog racing. They had no quarrel with horse racing, but they made it plain that they are firmly opposed to dog racing.

The Reverend Arthur Keimal, pastor of the Divinity Congregational Church in West Springfield, representing western Massachusetts, sounded the keynote of the hearing:

"We are in this fight," he said. "We enlisted for the duration of the war and we will win."

KIRK To Ask 50 State DETECTIVES

Lieutenant-Colonel Paul G. Kirk, state commissioner of public safety, will go before Governor Curley and the Executive Council Wednesday, he announced today, and ask that the present state detective force of 38 be increased to 50.

If the council approves enlarging the force, Kirk's request will go to the legislative committee on ways and means for additional appropriation in the budget.

He also said that, irrespective of the action on the greater detective force, he will organize a force of state narcotic agents in the drive against dope pedlars, in co-operation with Boston police and federal authorities.

The decision to create a narcotic squad comes out of a conference Saturday with Police Commissioner Eugene McSweeney and Charles A. Burrows, federal narcotic director in New England.

A check-up of narcotic addicts and salesmen engaged the attention of Assistant United States Attorney William T. McCarthy today in preparation for a report to the grand jury which reconvenes tomorrow.

Burrows was in conference today with Police Commissioner McSweeney.

GREEK Rebels BEATEN

3000 CAPTURED IN MACEDONIA

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

Athens, March 11—The Greek Government today reported the smashing of armed rebel opposition in Macedonia, the capture of 3000 rebels soldiers, and the virtual end of the Macedonian rebellion.

This followed announcement that rebel forces had withdrawn from their stronghold in Seres.

News of the withdrawal was made public just as the government was informed the rebel cruiser Helle had been abandoned in the port of Kavalla by the officers and their followers.

These were compelled to remain on board when the vessel was captured by rebels at the start of the uprising.

The rebels' withdrawal from Seres was said to have taken place at 7:30 a. m. local time (12:30 a. m. E.S.T.) as government troops were preparing to launch a simultaneous attack from three points west of the insurgents' line.

At the same time a secondary encirclement was reported to have taken place west of the Struma river at Tsagezi.

Unofficial reports said the casualties in the bitter fighting of the last 48 hours total 4000 for both sides.

Army pilots reported they dropped 12 tons of high explosives on rebel barracks in the war zone and scored several direct hits. The aerial squadron also said it sank an oil tanker en route to provide the rebel fleet with fuel.

FOOD On Way for 250 IN COURT SIEGE

By International News Service

McAlester, Okla., March 11—A crowd of 250 hungry unemployed and their families today were in the third day of their siege of the county courthouse, demanding food until their demands for food and work are met.

"President Roosevelt and Governor Marland told us when they were elected that no one would go hungry," said Mrs. Viola Watson, leader of the demonstrators. "What we would like to know is —what is the matter?"

It was reported 1000 rations of food are en route from Oklahoma City to be distributed among the crowd.

BONUS DUE To Pass Soon

Washington, March 11 (AP)—Speaker Byrns said today a final vote on bills to pay the $2,000,000,000 soldiers' bonus could not come before next Monday or Tuesday if the House adhered to its present schedule.

Bills, he said, probably will not be called up before Thursday. He declined to predict whether the House would pass the Patman bill, with provisions for new currency to buy up adjusted Compensation Certificates, or the Vinson-American Legion bill, with orthodox appropriation method of payment.

mobile, or by automobile bus. Going back ships will take you through the Panama Canal, your automobile, if you have one, with you and you will really see something.

You may see from the express train a huge motor omnibus that started from the edge of the Atlantic a little ahead of this train, climbing the grade at 50 miles an hour.

It is hard competition for railroads, but they will meet it when they realize that they MUST, with lighter equipment, smaller transportation units.

You will live to read a railroad advertisement, "New York to California by fast train in 22 hours," and this writer will take such a trip across the continent and tell you about it.

Railroad men do not know the value of their rights of way, a value greater than the united values of all the railroads have ever been in the best of times.

Farmers back East will want to know that a trap has been invented that catches two or three hundred crows a day easily. It is a wire enclosure, left in an open field with bait that appeals to crows.

The crows walk in, but cannot walk out. Such a trap extensively used, might exterminate the entire race of crows, and farmers might discover too late, that they were worth more to him than the corn they ate.

Crows eat field mice, grasshoppers and other farm nuisances. A western state once put a high bounty on coyotes because they killed lambs. After they had killed all the coyotes, field mice on which the coyotes lived principally, ate all the alfalfa. There was nothing for the lambs to eat.

Experimenting with "nature's balance" is dangerous.

Officials announce that in Colorado's national parks last year, "an extermination campaign" destroyed 33,100 porcupines, killed because they injured trees. In eastern forests, after porcupines had been killed extensively, many deer were found on the snow dead of starvation.

The porcupine climbs a tree, bites off the ends of small limbs with the succulent buds attached, and deer beneath the tree eat the limbs and buds before the porcupine can climb down and eat them himself.

Thirteen thousand one hundred porcupines killed in Colorado's forests may mean many hungry deer.

Chief Acoose, dead near Grenfell, Saskatchewan, deserves your admiration. The old chief, nearly 100 years of age, is the Indian that once chased an elk, on foot, for 70 miles, killing the elk when it could run no longer. Man "fearfully and wonderfully made" can outrun any animal in time.

When Arbuckle, the coffee man, sent a wild horse to Ross Bonheur, he hired men to follow the horse on foot, never letting it stop to rest. Finally capturing it.

No horse living could run as far in six days as a man on Long Island can run. A famous Irish runner, afterwards elected mayor, ran more than 600 miles in six days, in old Madison Square Garden.

Don't fail to cross this continent and see your own country. The trip is easy, short, comfortable.

10 SLAIN In Cuban CIVIL WAR

Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press

Havana, March 11—Five bodies of persons killed in Cuba's wild weekend of fighting were found today in the exclusive residential suburbs of Marianao as Havana itself lapsed into a translike calm under a "state of war."

The discovery of the bodies in Marianao and the death of a wounded man in a hospital brought the total known dead for the week-end to ten.

Havana streets were practically deserted except for patrols of soldiers and sailors. Many of the stores which opened for the day were without their clerks and the shopowners themselves transacted what business there was.

One of the day's few disorders was the looting by an unidentified group of men of the weekly magazine Tangana.

Although railroad men were on strike, soldiers forced a train crew at Camaguey to take a train into Havana. A bomb was exploded in the Fiscal Zone Building at Camaguey.

The entire island was paralyzed commercially. Union after union has joined the revolutionary drive for a nation-wide strike. Most of the island was without transportation, without ice, without mail or newspapers.

Under the state of war prevailing throughout Cuba only those with urgent business left their homes. Small bomb explosions could be heard in Havana, but otherwise there were no disorders.

Soldiers found three bombs under a bridge near Santiago and exploded them with rifle fire, damaging the bridge.

Fireman Hurt

William Hart, 32, a fireman attached to Rescue Company 2, was at City Hospital today with a dislocated shoulder suffered while he was fighting a fire in an unoccupied house on Marble street, Roxbury. Hart fell from the second to the first floor.

Sally Rand's School in Church Performance

By Associated Press

Columbia, Mo., March 11—The interpretation of hymns through the dancing of 15 pretty girls drew praise today from churchgoers who witnessed the "experiment" in the First Christian Church here last night.

The girls were from Christian College, alma mater of Sally Rand.

Before 300 persons, including most of the elders and deacons,

SALLY RAND

the dancers swayed and glided to piano and vocal accompaniment, their movements and ensemble formations symbolizing supplication, humility and prayer.

"Any unfavorable reaction would come only from those who didn't witness tonight's presentation," said Lieutenant-Governor Harris, president of the college board of trustees and a member of the church's board of elders. "I'm sure none in the audience was unfavorably impressed."

The dancers wore black pajama suits and long gray silk dresses. They danced barefooted.

Among the hymns the dancers sought to interpret were "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," "Three Kings of the Orient," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" and "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem."

"It was lovely, but purely an experimental thing," said Dr. C. E. Lemmon, the pastor of the church.

"The dances were perfectly wonderful," said O. H. Stark, retired Columbia merchant.

INSIST ON REPEAL OF 'PINK SLIP' LAW

Communicate with Your Senator and File Protest with Your Tax Return

If you pay Federal income tax you can do two things to protect yourself and your family from snoopers or criminals who are now permitted by law to learn the exact amount of your income.

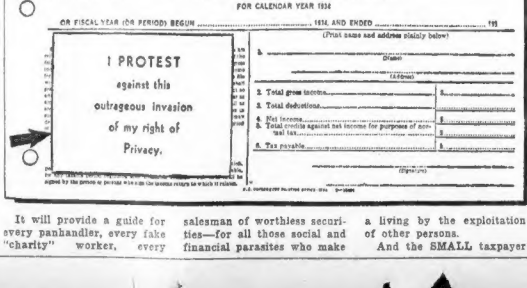
You can, first, write or telegraph your Senator and demand the repeal of the "pink slip" provision of the tax law, which makes your income public.

You can, second, write to The Sentinels of the Republic, Land Title Building, Philadelphia, for the "protest" stickers which they are circulating. Then you can attach one of those stickers to your pink slip, as shown here, and distribute the others to your friends.

You are advised to do both of these things without delay.

March 15, when you must file your income tax return, is almost here.

After March 15, if the law still stands, the Government will be furnishing a card index to every would-be kidnaper, blackmailer and swindler in the country.



It will provide a guide for every panhandler, every fake "charity" worker, every salesman of worthless securities—for all those social and financial parasites who make a living by the exploitation of other persons.

And the SMALL taxpayer invasion of your privacy, and let it know NOW.

will be as exposed to annoyance as the larger.

Though he may not become a target for organized gangdom, he will be subject to petty prying, and also to petty racketeering which can levy its tribute from him as surely as "big time" racketeering takes its toll from bigger business.

Unless you want your personal affairs made public property and yourself an easy mark for extortionists or other crooks you will let your Government know where you stand on this outrageous

What Alyce Is Thinking

ALYCE JANE MARKS MILESTONES ON THE LONG ROAD BACK TO NORMAL HEALTH

WANTS To Visit SICK

AND RIDE BIKE IN HOSPITAL

By PEGGY DOYLE

Fall River, March 11—Have you wondered what Alyce Jane McHenry has been thinking about?

She told today.

She has been thinking about the day—not so remote now—when she can get out of her bed in Truesdale Hospital and go around to all the other patients, cheering them up and leaving them gifts.

The Omaha 10-year-old, continuing her smiling convalescence from the upside-down stomach operation performed just a week ago, felt so good today that she announced plans to make others feel better.

These she revealed to her aunt, Mrs. Loren Nelson of O'Neill, Neb. Mrs. Nelson was sitting in Alyce Jane's room when Alyce offered out of a clear sky:

"Aunt Peggy, do you know what I'm thinking about?"

"No; what?" Mrs. Nelson asked. Said Alyce Jane:

"Well, I was thinking that when I get my bicycle—you know these swinging doors here—well, I'll get on my bicycle and I'll bump into every door and visit everybody here.

Chats and Gifts

"I'll chat a little while with each patient and leave a little gift. It can't be much, because mummy hasn't much money, but it will be something to make them happy.

"I'll go all through the hospital lickety-split on my bicycle."

Aunt Peggy asked:

"How would you like to have somebody bump into your room lickety-split the way you feel now?"

Alyce Jane chuckled.

"Well, I'll be more quiet with the real sick ones," she promised.

Under her pillow Alyce had a roll of bills today—saving for her bicycle. The money was sent by many who wrote they didn't know what she wanted most.

Her tremendous mail continued—1000 more letters on the first mail this morning; a truck has been pressed into service to lift the burden from the postman's back.

String of Pearls

Lucky pieces of all descriptions received in the previous mail, are hanging from the child's bed.

She asked to see some of the many dolls that have been sent her; they were placed on the bed and she patted each one.

This morning she tried on the string of pearls personally delivered by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell, of Philadelphia, and laughed her delight with them.

She was enchanted by a musical pig which, with drawings, were sent by a school class in Hinsdale, N. H. A music box within the pig plays: "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?"

A blood transfusion has become a remote possibility.

The Omaha child, whose faith and fearlessness have inspired the nation, slept beyond her regular breakfast hour this morning as the post-operative gastric disturbances lessened.

A bulletin issued from Truesdale Hospital at 8 o'clock by Drs. Cornelius H. Hawes and George C. King said:

"Temperature, 99.2; pulse, 92; respiration, 20. Alyce slept comfortably last night. Her condition remains satisfactory."

Liquid Foods

Orange juice and water were fed to her new right-side-up system when she awakened.

Because of the dehydrated condition of her little body, resulting from her pre-operative liquidless diet, fluids are considered more important right now than food.

While she is still slightly anaemic, this condition will probably be overcome by diet, now that she is able to eat, rather than by a transfusion.

If Alyce Jane continues her improvement through this week her recovery is assured, doctors believe.

The utmost precautions to guard against infections of all sorts, even a common cold, are being taken.

Alyce's mother, Mrs. Luella McHenry, who yesterday, for two hours during a drive to Newport, left the bedside of her daughter for the first time in weeks, was with her daughter all day today.

It's less than a month since Alyce Jane McHenry said farewell to her sister, Frances Jean, in Omaha, but in that time she has been transformed from a sick little girl with an upside-down stomach to a happy youngster slowly regaining strength.

The burden of Alyce's quest for health has fallen upon her mother, whose unfailing devotion through the trying days of the trip east and the agony of waiting to know the results of her daughter's operation, won the admiration of all.

Good cheer radiated by Alyce's aunt must be a family trait, for her smile is an adult reflection of the laughing courage which Alyce herself displayed despite her suffering. Mrs. Nelson has been a constant attendant at the hospital.

GABLE Once Girl SHY

DIFFERENT NOW SAYS MINISTER

Cadiz, O., March 11—"He was shy of the girls, and in his awkward appearance was nothing especially to be desired," said the Rev. Samuel K. Williams, Methodist minister in Clark Gable's home town of Hopedale from the pulpit.

The Rev. Williams is trying to drive ol' debbil out of Hopedale, and has selected the noted movie star as his target.

Pish, the ladies say, and also tosh.

As a boy in church, continued the pastor, Gable "sang in children's day exercises in a voice often heard above the others."

"The Gable voice!" sigh the ladies.

Now the Rev. Williams prays that "the Lord may yet make him a great evangelist to take the place of Billy Sunday."

The ladies agree that he would make a handsome evangelist, but they will take him as is, on the silver screen. Rev. Williams has found barren ground in the home town of the handsome Gable.

"Bad Influence"

He started it a few days, at a parent-teachers gathering, where he characterized Gable as a "bad influence" for the young.

Primly, Mrs. Mildred Carrier, who sponsored the meeting, said, "I saw nothing objectionable in any of his pictures."

"An artist!" another lady fluttered. "A creative genius!"

"And such a profile," they all agreed.

From the pulpit the young evangelist resumed his attack in his Sunday sermon. Though Gable has been dropped from the church membership, "Let us not drop him from our prayer list," the minister implored.

The ladies agreed to pray for Clark, which was the best break the minister got in his evangelical efforts. They are with the screen actor to the last lady.

Pole Crash Fatal

Tiverton, R. I., March 11—Jose Carrita, 47, of Chicago street, Fall River, was dead today of injuries sustained when a truck he was driving crashed into a pole on the Newport highway here. Two companions were hurt.

A hand-made peasant doll from the SS. Roma which Miss Mary Curley, daughter of the Governor, obtained as a souvenir, was autographed "To the Bravest Little Girl in America" and sent to Alyce Jane McHenry.

This doll, the gift of Mary Curley, is waiting to help Alyce get well.

ROCKEFELLER Recovers From Cold

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 11 (AP)—The walls of secrecy that have shut John D. Rockefeller, Sr., from contact with all but a few of his closest friends were parted enough today to reveal the aged master of millions recovering from his first illness of the winter.

The oil magnate has been confined to his winter home here, suffering from a cold. The ever now has subsided, and he is in no danger.

DIONNES Balk at Quins as KING'S WARDS

By Associated Press

North Bay, Ont., March 11—Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of the quintuplets, said in an interview here today that they opposed the bill now before the Ontario Legislature to make his five daughters "wards of the king."

The bill would bring the children's welfare under the direction of the minister of welfare, with Dionne himself a member of the board of guardians.

"The minister told us," said Dionne, "that God never intended us to have, that I was to go back to my farm and forget about the babies until they were 18 and then we would have $1,000,000."

"All we want," said Mrs. Dionne, "is a chance to show that we are able to raise our babies ourselves."

Dionne further said that last Saturday he went to the hospital where the children are being reared, but the authorities refused to pull up the blinds to permit him to look at the quintuplets. If the bill fails to pass, the Dionnes plan to have the little girls live with their other children as soon as possible.

THROUGH With Screen SAYS HELEN

Toronto, March 11—Helen Hayes is definitely through with the screen and will seek release from her contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer before she is called upon to make another picture, she said today, following her arrival here to play Mary of Scotland. She added:

"The only thing Hollywood has to offer ahead of the stage is money. While I am not trying to make out that I am sacrificing money for art, there is such a thing as making too much money."

STAGE Folks Resent DEB SINGERS

By Associated Press

New York, March 11—The American Federation of Actors, meeting tonight to protest against the invasion of night clubs shows by debutantes and society men, resent them as amateurs, not as persons of social prominence.

"We aren't fighting talent," explained Joe Laurie, Jr., first vice-president of the federation. "We know everybody's got to start. But a lot of our 5000 members find it tough enough to get a job competing with real performers. And we know some of these debutantes are in there just for a lark."

Laurie acknowledged that some of the society people are pinched for money.

"More power to them if they give a good show," he said. "Some of them do, I hear. Others are terrible."

ROBART ENDORSES TEACHERS' OATH

Urges New Law

MOST MASSACHUSETTS SCHOOL AUTHORITIES LOYAL, HE SAYS

Belief that the adoption and passage of the teacher's oath bill now before the Legislature will stifle un-American activities in the schools, was expressed today by Ralph W. Robart, Commissioner of Necessities of Life, Cambridge school committeeman and World War hero.

Robart, present national senior vice-commander of the Legion of Valor, in endorsing the bill, said:

"One of the most important public offices in America is that of teacher in our schools and colleges, and it is one of the few public offices that have not heretofore required the oath of allegiance.

"The same is true of our school committees who under the pending legislation will have to subscribe to the oath. It is often commented that school committees are the only public office holders that do not require an oath at the present time.

"I feel very strongly on the subject and believe also that the study of government in the high schools should be required as a college board necessity.

"I believe the adoption and passage of such a law will stifle un-American activities, although I believe that in Massachusetts the great majority of our teachers in public schools do everything possible to instill patriotism and love of country into our youth.

It is a fact that some collaborate with intellectual outsiders in an attempt under the guise of economy to break down the public school system."

New Jersey to Pass Teachers' Oath Bill

Trenton, N. J., March 11 (US)—The teachers loyalty oath bill is expected to pass the Senate tonight. The bill, which was sponsored by Mary P. Shelton, of Bergen County, already passed the assembly.

The loyalty oath bill has been held in the Senate judiciary committee for several weeks. Senator John C. Barbour of Passaic County, chairman of the committee, suggested an amendment to the bill, simplifying the oath to make it conform to that taken by the Senators themselves. Mrs. Shelton agreed to the change and opposition to the measure is expected to be withdrawn.

NAZI BOYCOTT Pressure Urged

Increased pressure of the Jewish boycott on German-made goods was advocated at a conference of the New England branch of the American-Jewish Congress at the Parker House.

Rabbi Lewis I. Newman of New York urged the members to create a public opinion in their behalf that the world will respect. The meeting was preparatory to a national meeting scheduled for Philadelphia next week.

CAN NIJINSKY REGAIN SANITY?

Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service

Paris, March 11—Can Nijinsky, the world-famous Russian dancer, conquer insanity and stage a comeback in the autumn of his life?

Word has been brought back from Switzerland that physicians in the sanitarium there where Nijinsky now lives in complete retirement have by no means given up hope of a recovery.

The star of the Imperial Russian ballet, whose mental breakdown was directly attributed by psychiatrists to the emotional strain he underwent during the World War, is allowed only one visitor at the sanitarium. That is his wife.

Fear that visits from his daughter, herself a famous dancer, or from friends would blot out the progress already made has necessitated this rigid rule. Nijinsky is said to recognize nobody he ever knew before.

From conversations with Dr. Binswanger, head of the sanitarium at Kreuslingen, there is reason to believe there is still more hope of guiding his mind back to normal.

Before the war, Nijinsky became the ballet sensation of the world. At the outbreak of hostilities the dancer was in Hungary where he found a growing hostility towards him because he was a Russian. He was even accused of being a spy. He sought refuge from the war in America, but upon returning to Europe for a rest in Switzerland, gradually broke down mentally.

He has never recovered, although for a brief period it was believed he had recovered. The most modern treatments are being utilized in his behalf. Only time will tell whether it is effective.

GILL Funeral TONIGHT

Charles A. Gill, 32, assistant financial editor of the Boston Evening American, was mourned in death today by a host of friends he made in newspaper and financial circles.

He succumbed at Lawrence Memorial Hospital, Medford, from blood poisoning which developed from a blister on his finger less than two weeks ago.

He is survived by his wife, the former Queenie Butler of Woburn, and one daughter, Lois, 8, with whom he made his home at 65 Washington street, Medford.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gill of Burlington, also survive.

Funeral services will be held tonight at 8 p. m. in the parlors of Frederick N. Beals Son, 30 High street, Medford. The body will be cremated tomorrow.

In addition to his newspaper and financial activities, Gill was well known as an organist and pianist. At one time he played for several popular orchestras.

This Is Life

ROBERT E ROGERS

A great light burst upon me Sunday evening when I was listening to the radio, instead of doing the dozen things I keep postponing during the week until Sunday evening comes.

Lots of things have been puzzling me of late. Item; why Mr. Richard Grant and his associates insisted on washing the White House soiled linen in public, thus using up perfectly good front pages presumably in demand for world affairs of deepest import.

Item; why, just as the Greek Revolution and the Cuban revolution are getting hot and the Bonus bill is coming to a head and beginning to throb like something we old Yankees used to call a "healing," there is nothing to read in the newspapers except Hugh Johnson's personal remarks about Huey Long and Fr. Coughlin, and Huey Long's still more personal remarks in reply, and the expectation of Fr. Coughlin's reply tonight.

Robert E. Rogers

By tomorrow, I suppose that the radio priest will be all over the headlines and General Johnson will be ramming in another charge of grape and shrapnel, and if you want to find out anything about Venizelos and the American ambassador to Cuba you will have to look on the back pages somewhere between the market reports and the comic strips.

But the radio program gave me an idea. It was one of the confections in which at least half the program time is taken up with supposedly bitter personal quarrels between the protagonist (or "compere," if we want to be really chic!) and his various stooges, his orchestra leader, his baritone, and other stray and anonymous voices. The compere forgot to give his orchestra leader, who wears spats, a Christmas present, and now they do not speak. And when they do speak it is all too regrettable.

Rocks With Glee

Meanwhile an apparently large and noisy audience rocks with glee every time one well-known radio personage hands a dirty crack to another well-known personage, and the gal of the program puts her sarcastic oar in, and everything is very personal and stuffy, just as in executive offices in the governor's absence, or in the Senate Chamber, or what have you.

And hardly is that finished when another radio comedian begins to row with his cast and the audience—perhaps the same audience, for all I know—rocks with laughter again, as if it were in the Senate gallery—and so on, far, far into the night.

One begins to understand. All the world may love a lover—at least, so the proverb tells us—but all the world, if the newspaper headlines are any criterion, certainly adores a good scrap, highly publicized, and carried on by gentlemen who have no prejudice against brass knuckles, who like to bite in the clinches, who are adept in the rabbit punch, and for whom no holds are barred.

What matters it if half across the world multitudes of people with unpronounceable names are fighting with artillery, cruisers and airplanes in a squabble which may change the political face of the Near East and hustle up Mr. H. G. Wells's famous war before 1940?

Who Cares?

Apparently it matters to nobody except to Mr. Brisbane, who will be anxiously watching the news to see whether the Greek airplanes will bomb the daylights out of the rebel cruisers, as he so firmly believes they can, or whether the old naval strategy will triumph.

But to the news-reading public all that is unimportant compared with the problem of whether there will be permanent peace in the governor's office or whether the radio executives will come to their senses and bar the general and the senator and the reverend from the air before they manage to start a private civil war of their own. Or whether Jack and Mary and Frank and Don will be speaking next Sunday evening over the air.

We used to be shocked, years ago, when Pitchfork Tillman threatened to mix it on the floor of the Senate or Heflin raised a ruckus with one eye on his constituents and the other on the public prints.

But all that is picayune compared to the entertainment provided by our public servants and by their servants no less public—even though they do not act like it.

What a pity Ben Butler is in Valhalla! How much he would have enjoyed it—and how well he was qualified for it!

U. S. Academy for SHIP AID

NEW PLAN TO TRAIN OFFICERS

By Associated Press

Washington, March 11—A new national academy for the training of merchant marine officers who would be available to the navy in time of emergency was disclosed today as an important part of the administration's new ship policy.

The academy would be under the direction of Commerce Department officials, but the navy would have an interest in its conduct as well as in plans to provide training for 20,000 officers and men in a merchant marine naval reserve.

Government officials who have been shaping the policy for consideration by Congress disclosed also that a "fighting fund" of several million dollars is contemplated to enable American shipping companies to compete in any destructive rate wars with foreigners or recalcitrant independent operators.

This fund was proposed, officials said, particularly in view of serious inroads on American commerce made by foreign interests.

At present the merchant marine is officially considered far below defense needs.

It was indicated today the navy wants at least 140 vessels, particularly fast combination passenger and cargo ships and tankers, built to be available in time of emergency.

The Merchant Marine Academy would be modeled after Annapolis and the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Ct.

To Become EVANGELIST

By Universal Service

Hollywood, March 11—Scantily-clad film actress to evangelist! and naturally, it's happened right in Hollywood, with titian-haired Bobbie La Salle, former Boston girl, in the leading role.

All her life the 26-year-old dancer, who has played in many pictures during the past six years here, has wanted to enter religious work.

So when Pittsburgh's radio evangelist, Jack Munyon, came to town recently and met the comely miss, it took little persuasion to induce her to give up film work. Said the ex-actress:

"Of course I'm not an evangelist yet, but I expect to be in about two years when I finish my studies."

Before departing for the Bible class with Munyon she tore up all her photographs. Now she's through with Hollywood.

700,000 More Jobs by MARCH 31

SLUMP'S END IS SEEN NEAR

By Associated Press

Washington, March 11—A series of economic pronouncements combined today to thread the news with more business optimism than has appeared in many a day.

Declaring production in March has been "definitely ascending," the Chamber of Commerce of the United States said: "If the trends of the first week persist, the results from the month will demonstrate a continuation of substantial improvement over a four-month period."

Unless the trends are disturbed, it said, 700,000 workers will have obtained jobs between Jan. 1 and March 31.

The American Federation of Labor's monthly survey of business said "under the ruffled surface of the business stream currents of revival are steadily gaining strength."

It declared that total income of workers as a group "has been slowly increasing through re-employment" and that there has been "a real increase in total workers' buying power."

It added, however, that because of rising living costs "the last two years have not raised the general standard of living" and "the average worker who has a job is actually worse off in real income than he was two years ago."

Big Bond Issue

Members of the Securities and Exchange Commission hailed what they hoped was a new harbinger that the frozen stream of capital is thawing. This was a $45,000,000 refunding bond issue by the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, the largest issue registered under the Securities Act. Commissioner James M. Landis said such financing is "always the beginning of a capital flow."

Charles G. Dawes, former vice-president, said at Tucson, Ariz., the depression will be over in another two months and that the country will realize it now later than July.

The panics of 1873 and 1893 each lasted about 5½ years, he said, and this slump is doing likewise. He called, however, for a balanced budget, declaring that if government borrowing is continued after recovery another smash may result.

UNCORKS STUFFY NOSES IN 5 SECONDS

Doctors Recommending Extract of Chinese Plant

When you have a head cold, thousands of tiny blood vessels in your nose swell up, choke off breathing and suck up your nostrils as tight as a bottle. You can't sleep well and it makes you feel miserable. But now—you can get relief in 5 quick seconds.

Thousands of years ago, Chinese medicine men discovered that one of their plants possessed almost magical powers in relieving nose and throat conditions. Today, after endless experiments, modern science has found a way to extract from this plant its most active ingredient, called Ephedrine. And, now, you and every other sufferer of head colds can get the wonderful benefits of Ephedrine in a scientific compound called Hill's Nose Drops.

In five seconds Hill's Nose Drops start to shrink swollen blood vessels in the nose. As they contract, passages open, mucus drains off and breathing is made easier. Be sure to get a remedy that hits at the real cause of clogged passages . . . nasal congestions. So, if you want "5 second relief" from head colds or the spasms of asthma or bronchitis, get a bottle of Hill's Nose Drops today. At all druggists, 30¢.

Graduates From 'Glamour' They're Just Home Folks Now

Stories of the wildness and wickedness of the Californian film capital are mostly exaggeration, according to these enthusiastic young parents, Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, here in leading roles in the farce-comedy "Hollywood Holiday," in the Plymouth this. But they're glad, they say, to be graduates from "glamour" of the Klieg lights—and to be able now to better acquainted with their charming young daughter Barbara.

Who Got the Aide's Pants?

Vanished When Reds Looted Embassy

London, March 11—The question of who got the British military attache's pants in old St. Petersburg at the time of the Russian revolution was raised with a shout today in the House of Commons.

The subject of the pants was pressed by Sir Alfred Knox in the midst of an interpellation of Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, who is about to go to Moscow in connection with the British government's overtures for an eastern European peace pact.

Several members of the House attempted, unsuccessfully, to get Captain Eden to promise he would try to obtain satisfaction from the Russians for the £11,525—approximately $56,000—worth of plate and furniture stolen from the British embassy during the Bolshevist revolution.

Sir Alfred stopped the proceedings by shouting:

"And they not only got the plate and furniture, but they retained the military attache's trousers!"

Captain Eden did not indicate whether the subject of the trousers—or the plate—would be ironed out.

JAMAICA PLAIN Man Badly Burned

Seriously burned in a boiler explosion, John Glennon, 40, of Estrella street, Jamaica Plain, was on the danger list at City Hospital today.

BEBE Starts Barbara's CAREER HERE

Boston was selected today by Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels as the city in which to start training of their daughter for stage and movies.

The movie stars, now playing Boston in their own stage show with Skeets Gallagher, brought little Barbara Lyon, three and a half years, to Boston last Friday.

Today they despatched her to the Dolan-DePetro Theatrical Studios in Dudley street, Roxbury, where Barbara began her course in training to follow in the footsteps of her father and mother.

"I want Barbara to acquire grace and poise early," said Bebe today. "Every day while we are playing here Barbara will be given instructions by Miss Gertrude Dolan and we expect to make another star out of her."

V. F. W. Oust Doctor IN EXPOSE

Dr. John Paul Cooper, head of Cooper Hospital in Attleboro, has been secretly ousted as department surgeon of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, he said today.

The surgeon declared his ouster resulted from him renewing charges of brutality inflicted on service men in veterans' hospitals in Massachusetts and New England.

These charges, he said, have resulted in launching of an investigation by Senators David I. Walsh and Huey Long.

Through them, Dr. Cooper will seek a senatorial committee investigation and will go to Washington this week, he revealed.

Last June, at the Lawrence convention of the V. F. W., Dr. Cooper made charges of brutalities against veterans' hospitals, but later, following a secret three-hour session of state department officials, he exonerated the Bedford Hospital.

The charges then were dropped and the state department refused to make an investigation with reference to any New England hospital.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our feces smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped lowcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M.Co.

Libby Hits Dope Story

Refutes Divorce Charge as Battle Opens

By International News Service

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 11—Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway torch singer and second wife of the mysteriously slain Zachary Smith Reynolds, today refuted the assertion of Joseph Cannon, wealthy North Carolina towel manufacturer and father of Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith, that Reynolds' first wife was doped with morphine and "physically and mentally unable" when she signed her Reno divorce deposition.

Through her attorneys, Libby, who once faced an indictment charging she and the young tobacco heir's best friend, Ab Walker, were responsible for the shot that killed Reynolds in 1932, filed the refutation today shortly before the court battle over settlement of the $25,000,000 estate opened.

GOLD Profit Plan LAUDED

WALL STREET CHEERS

By Associated Press

New York, March 11 (AP)—The United States Treasury's decision to use $642,000,000 of its "free gold" to retire the National bank notes was widely acclaimed as a constructive move in Wall Street today.

Little immediate effect was seen, but the reduction of the federal debt and the simplification of the national currency were described by many as moves in the right direction.

Virtually no change in the amount of currency or bank credit outstanding was anticipated in the near future.

Potentially, however, the move was described as broadening the credit base, for it replaces somewhat "sterile" currency outstanding with gold notes in the Federal Reserve System, against every dollar of which the reserve can issue $2.50 of its Federal Reserve notes, which constitute the chief form of paper money in use in this country.

Therefore, inasmuch as there are more than $500,000,000 of the national bank notes outstanding, they may be replaced by a potential maximum of something over $1,250,000,000 of Federal Reserve notes.

However, this was regarded as one of the more theoretical aspects of the matter, since the Federal Reserve System already has sufficient gold certificates to issue millions more of currency than is at present outstanding. The Treasury's move merely adds a little more to the potentialities.

Death Victor Over Serum

Other Boy Victim Gains, However

The battle waged by medicine against spinal meningitis ended in defeat today in Cliftondale—but showed signs of victory in Providence.

In the first battle, 11-year-old Harvey H. Drown, Jr., over whom doctors and firemen worked for almost a week, lost his life.

In Providence, 8-year-old Ralph Hiatt was responding to new serum injections and, after doctors virtually had given up hopes for his life, he now has a good chance of recovering.

When an oxygen treatment, given to the Drown boy, failed, Dr. Mary M. Penny administered a serum developed at Children's Hospital, the only serum known to have brought about a complete cure in such diseases. But it failed.

In the case of the Hiatt boy, however, immediate improvement was noted as soon as the serum arrived.

The serum on which the Providence doctors must pin their hopes was developed at Boston Children's Hospital by Dr. Leroy D. Fothergill and two other doctors.

JOHNSON To Rely On PRINT

RADIO TIME LIMITED

By Universal Service

New York, March 11—The verbal battle between General Hugh S. Johnson, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana and Father Charles E. Coughlin, the noted radio priest, is by no means at an end.

The general announced as much at Hotel St. Regis.

While denying a statement accredited to him that he had unlimited radio facilities, he said:

"The printed word is still a pretty heavy weapon."

His statement, in full, follows:

"Part of the quotations in newspapers convey a mistaken impression as to broadcasts. I have no immediate plans to continue any debate with Huey Long and Father Coughlin on the air. I doubt if there would be time enough for it.

"I realize there are other matters in which the radio listeners may be interested, and I have no promise of time from officials of any broadcasting company, who, I feel I should say, have been responsive to questions of public importance, and have made no charge for the use of their facilities.

"I have other ways of continuing my fight. The printed word is still a pretty heavy weapon."

General Johnson did not reveal the medium through which he plans to wield the "printed word."

Fr. Coughlin's Reply Goes on Air Tonight

New York, March 11—An extra 15 minutes has been allotted by the National Broadcasting system to the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin for his reply tonight to charges made against him by General Hugh S. Johnson. The extension from the half-hour time originally set was requested by the Detroit priest, NBC officials said.

Father Coughlin's address, to be heard from 10:15 p. m. (E. S. T.) to 11 p. m., will be carried over the same WJZ network which broadcast General Johnson's speech.

Holmes' House May Be Shrine

By Universal Service

Washington, March 11—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' bequest of a large portion of his personal fortune to the government may serve as a precedent for other wealthy figures to leave similar gifts in the future, government leaders here thought.

Justice Holmes' action in leaving approximately $250,000 to the national treasury is not the first instance of its kind, however. The Treasury Department recalled that numerous other bequests of this kind had been made on a smaller scale, the largest heretofore being one of $100,000 about 40 years ago.

Meanwhile it developed that the Holmes residence in I street, where the beloved jurist lived for many years, may become a national shrine in his honor.

Under the terms of the will, the executor, John G. Palfrey, Boston lawyer, is permitted to keep the house open as long as he deems advisable, and to pay necessary expenses from the $350,000 estate.

Treasury experts said that Justice Holmes, renowned as an altruist and philanthropist, could have chosen no more equitable manner of distributing the benefit of the $250,000 to the public good than by the method of donating it to the federal government.

Through this channel, the entire nation shares proportionately, they explained, without any of the fund being consumed for overhead of administration.

Edward J. Holmes, of Boston, nephew of the jurist, to whom he left certain specific books and any 100 volumes from his library that the nephew might select, was in Washington to assist in settling the estate, but had not started to make his choices of books.

THE READING-IN-BED DIVORCE SUIT

JEAN HARLOW

By Associated Press

Los Angeles, March 11—Jean Harlow once laughed when a fortune teller told her she would marry six times.

Today she planned to ask a divorce from her third husband, mild-mannered Hal Rosson, "Ace" cinematographer.

The two were married Sept. 18, 1933, in an airplane elopement to Yuma, Ariz. Upon their return to the film colony, the bride said:

"This marriage will be forever."

Rosson was not here to contest the suit. He is in Europe recuperating from an attack of infantile paralysis.

The actress charged Rosson with cruelty, claiming that he persisted in reading in bed after they retired.

She also said he was "rude, sullen and irritable," and sometimes refused to talk to her or her family.

She further stated he had "an ungenerous character."

All this was in sharp contrast to what she told reporters in explaining the marriage that took Hollywood completely by surprise.

"Hal's exquisite quality of friendship won my heart," she said at that time. "He has a vast capacity for loyalty, and a divine sense of humor. How do people get through life without humor?"

Miss Harlow's name is linked frequently with that of William Powell, one of the screen's best-dressed actors. They have attended many social and sporting events together, but both deny marriage plans.

When she was only 16 she wed Charles McGrew, 3d, Chicago clubman. This union was short-lived.

Miss Harlow married Paul Bern when she was 21 and he was 42. He committed suicide a few months later. He left an enigmatic note.

The actress celebrated her 24th birthday March 3. Her divorce case was to be assigned and set today in the calendar court.

Rosson Chuckles at Jean's Charges

By International News Service

London, March 11—A "ha ha" and a "ho ho" was the summarizing comment made by Hal Rosson, Hollywood movie cameraman, when asked today to discuss the charges by his wife, Jean Harlow, that he annoyed her by reading in bed late at nate.

Deeming such comment sufficient, Rosson declined to make a statement regarding Miss Harlow's divorce proceedings against him.

"I have nothing to say," he offered. "Anything coming from me will have to come from my lawyers."

HARD Knocks Their SCHOOL

CO-EDS BACK WITH 'DEGREES'

By International News Service

Bennington, Vt., March 11—Armed with "degrees" from the "school of hard knocks," Bennington College's 230 girl students, who last fall closed their textbooks, scattered for two months and worked in their chosen fields, today had returned to their classrooms.

Their jobs were in schools, settlement houses, hospitals, laboratories, nursery schools, theaters, factories, business offices and art, sculpture, design, photographic, music and dance studies.

A few traveled, one group studying marine biology at the Bermuda station of biological research. Another group, although delayed by the wreck of the S. S. Havana, continued on to Mexico to study art.

One undergraduate in the social studies division was given the run of a small textile factory, and she not only learned the technicalities of the machinery and the processes involved, but also found out something of what is on the worker's mind.

Two worked in a children's clinic in Detroit and another had a position in the social service department of the Children's Hospital in Denver.

Students of the drama and the dance concentrated in New York, while one girl became stage manager for a successful play in Hartford, Ct.

In the field of science, one girl studied the physiology of the blood at Johns Hopkins University and two others were in cancer research laboratories.

A girl in the literature division lived on a Vermont farm and studied Greek.

BRUNO Defense to Pay FOR APPEAL

By International News Service

Trenton N. J., March 11—Bruno Hauptmann's appeal will be paid for by the defense and not by the state of New Jersey, it was learned today.

The surprising announcement was made by Defense Attorney Frederick A. Pope, who said "there never was any thought that the state would pay for the printing of the trial record."

Asked why Hauptmann had signed a pauper's oath, Pope said: "We would have had to reimburse the state, anyway."

Pope said he expected to confer with Attorney-General David T. Wilentz at his office today, "for a few minutes."

City loam, gravel and other supplies were delivered to five private residences in Quincy before election, a former Quincy worker testified today at coster proceedings against Mayor Charles A. Ross.

Attorney William P. Kelley, counsel for Ross, forced Dillon to admit under cross-examination that the city repaired any damage done where new sidewalks were made, but the witness insisted that such was not the case at the five residences he listed.

"There are Pork Chops . . . and PORK CHOPS"

I WAS CONSIDERABLY amused the other evening when I overheard one of two men, who were eating their supper in a Boston Waldorf, pass this pertinent remark about their pork chop specials . . . "there are pork chops and PORK CHOPS."

● And as this middle-aged gentleman was rapidly and with considerable gusto cleaning his plate, it was easy to gather that he heartily approved of his order. From the rest of his conversation I gathered he understood a good deal about the care in the buying and the exact precision in cooking that was necessary to have this pork chop just as he liked it. One might say he "knew his pork chops."

● You may be interested to know that we make sure that all our pork comes from those fine corn-fed animals from the mid-western part of our country . . . the golden corn belt section which produces the finest porkers in the world. Such pork has a distinctive flavor . . . sweet, juicy, and invariably tender as the tenderest chicken.

● The cooking of course is also vitally important . . . slow cooking, turned repeatedly and brought to that peak of pork perfection where it has all the delicious natural flavors and the extreme tenderness of this meat at its best.

● This man was right . . . "there are pork chops and PORK CHOPS!"

is today as much an enigma to me as he was the day he was arrested.

"Will Hauptmann die in the electric chair?"

Hauptmann's lawyers have taken an appeal and they plan to fight this appeal to the last ditch—to the United States Supreme Court—if necessary. Edward J. Reilly, chief counsel for the prisoner, said the various appeals the defense plans will take until early in 1937. He continues to characterize the verdict as "a miscarriage of justice." He is engaged with Mrs. Hauptmann in making public appeals for defense funds.

Bruno Hauptmann

Despite the reflection cast on the verdict by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and concurred in by others who distrust circumstantial evidence, the state of New Jersey has no doubt the verdict was eminently right. Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, who headed the prosecution, branded Hauptmann as "Public Enemy Number One of the World," and insisted he—and he alone—kidnaped and murdered the Lindbergh baby. He termed Hauptmann an egomaniac, a man quite capable of the "crime of the century." In inferentially explaining Hauptmann's refusal to confess or admit anything he was not forced to admit, Wilenzt pointed out the accused man's amazing will power and mental control.

Reilly declares Hauptmann "must not go to the chair" because he is "innocent." He severely criticized Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury and indicates this will be the main basis of the appeal battle.

"The verdict of guilty was demanded in Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury," said Reilly. "It appears to be a practice in New Jersey for a judge to comment upon the evidence. Every bit of evidence that might have been helpful to the prosecution was brought out in the court's charge. But emphasize this: Nobody placed Hauptmann in New Jersey the night of the crime. Nobody!"

Wilentz and the other prosecutors differ with Reilly and the defense lawyers on this last point, too. They believe that at least three of their witnesses "put Hauptmann in New Jersey."

"How will Hauptmann die—if the appeals fail and he is executed?"

My belief, based on close observation of the man, is that he will meet his death unflinchingly.

When I talked to him in his cell in Flemington less than 24 hours after he was sentenced, the condemned man told me:

"If I have to go to the electric chair, I will go like a man!"

There was no braggadocio in his tone or manner as he said it. I had put the question to him and he answered it calmly. He was standing there against the bars, his hands gripping them, one leg cocked in relaxed fashion on a cross bar, and he answered the question quietly and with deliberation. He was in his undershirt and pants. His arms were bare and I couldn't help noticing his long, finely developed muscles. He was minus a belt and there were no laces in his shoes.

With this description of his interview with Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the longest and most complete ever given by the condemned man to any reporter, which will be completed in tomorrow's instalment, James L. Kilgallen introduces his series on "Untold Stories of the Hauptmann Case," in which new light will be thrown upon the most celebrated crime of the century.

KEEP IN TOUCH

"I would feel much easier if I knew I could get in touch with you if ever I needed to," Edith M told her husband.

"I don't like to feel so far away from you either," he answered. "When I'm to be late or if you are not well, it would save us both worry if we had a telephone of our own. Besides, the boss would like to reach me sometimes at night."

The outcome was that Edith called the business office to order their telephone installed.

"Keeping in touch" is today one big reason why families get and keep their telephones. Of course they also benefit from its help-getting, errand-running, time-saving, friendship-holding services.

Wouldn't you also enjoy some one of these benefits? New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

NEW HUB AirAttraction TONIGHT

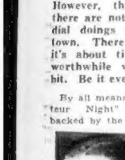
GIRL AND BOYS SONG GROUP

By N. F. T.

It isn't often enough that I find it in order to overly enthuse about Boston broadcasting efforts, mainly for the reason that the networks provide most of the really outstanding ozone entertainment.

Few can gainsay the logic. However, that doesn't mean there are not some fairly good dial doings in the old home town. There are, and perhaps it's about time to laud such worthwhile wireless efforts a bit. Be it ever so little a bit.

By all means, the Sunday "Amateur Night" setting (WNAC) backed by the Hub furriers, is attracting wide attention. It can not be called a truly top-notch program—largely owing to the ever apparent evidence that it lacks certain zip. At the same time it certainly provides listeners an opportunity to hear aspiring artists who would "make the grade" and while not very many of them are likely to scale the broadcasting heights, they do at least try. Therefore that time-worn adage about nothing ventured, nothing gained, is the philosophy with which to indulge it all. Moreover it does win loudspeaker patronage aplenty every Sunday night, so what more can a sponsor seek?



"N. F. T."

OTHER OFFERINGS

Then there's the weekly Ranny Weeks half hour, also a Sunday evening endeavor and duly impressive. Ruby Newman and his hour of orchestral offerings, likewise appealing in no small measure. Both of the above are WEEI waftings. Along the powerful WBZ-WBZA lanes, the "Gems of Melody" airing is a well constructed half hour that goes out over the nation-wide network from here. In other words, it's actually more than a Boston presentation, it's good enough for all America.

Building acceptable programs is something more or less neglected by the local sound sanctum head men to date, a regrettable fact because network competition and famous personalities get coast to coast consideration first. This evening (WNAC) between 7:30 and 7:45 will bring "Francine and her Whalers" up for the first of a new three-times-a-week turn. Heretofore the feature has been known as "Francine and her Bachelors" and their work has been deservedly commended in this space a number of times. Francis Johnstone is the girl and the quartet members are Georges Carey, Tony Dooley, Gus Cunen and Oscar Smith. Lend them an ear or two tonight. Methinks that if the debut is as impressive as rehearsals this writer heard on Saturday, then the group appears to be headed for bigger and better things in radioland.

ALICE AND ADRIAN

Another premiere tonight is the Yankee Network newest program, "Romance Caravan," featuring Alice O'Leary, Adrian O'Brien, and Bobby Norris. It will be heard (WNAC) each Monday and Wednesday night henceforth from 10:30 to 10:45 p. m.

The well known "Corn Cob Pipe Club of Virginia" (formerly of WEEI) will be brought to New England radio audience (WNAC) starting this evening from 10 to 10:30 p. m., and continuing each Monday evening thereafter at the same hour. The program will be heard as it originates in Richmond, Va.

HOT AND HEAVY

Not many if any, program is likely to have more tuners-in than the scheduled 10:15 to 10:45 turn Father Coughlin takes (WBZ-WBZA) tonight. It's the occasion of the dynamic Detroit priest coming back at General Johnson, former NRA mogul who literally lashed the grandstand clergyman to the "mike" mast last Monday night. Fur is due to fly from border to border when this 30 minutes holds forth—and there's no maybe about my not meaning maybe.

Best Bets Tonight

7:30 p. m.—WNAC—Francine and her Whalers, a novelty quartet, will present songs of the sea, and popular songs.

8:00 p. m.—WBZ—Jan Garber's music, with songs by Dorothy Page.

8:30 p. m.—WEEI—Richard Crooks, with William Daly's Symphonic String Orchestra and a mixed chorus.

10:00 p. m.—WBZ—Little Jackie Heller, tenor, with Harry Kogen's Orchestra.

10:15 p. m.—WBZ—Father Charles E. Coughlin makes reply to General Hugh Johnson in half-hour discourse.

11:00 p. m.—WAAB—Glen Gray and his Casa Loma Band.

Ghost Alone Can Free Him

"Doctor" Must Produce Spirit or Be Jailed

By International News Service

New York, March 11—That bashful ghost who took a Sunday off when Magistrate Jonah Goldstein went in quest of him, better show up this week, or Emerson Gilbert will be jailed for practicing medicine without a license.

Gilbert and the ghost got into difficulties after a policewoman said she told Gilbert she was suffering a pain in the back.

Gilbert, she asserts, told her to diarobe, lie face down on a table and spirit hands would make the pain disappear.

She felt hands, the policewoman continued, but they were by no means spiritual.

Detectives arrested Gilbert. The latter protested, insisting he as a mere ghost and that if anyone were to be charged with practicing medicine without a license it should be the wraith, not him.

So Magistrate Goldstein went to the Gilbert apartment, demanding the ghost be produced so he could serve a summons on him. He was accompanied by several reporters. The ghost didn't show.

So today Gilbert will be given a chance to produce the ghost or prepare for a secluded sojourn at the city's expense.

RADIO ANSWERS

Q—Did Barry McKinley of the "Dreams Come True" program win his way by gaining a judge's decision in an "Amateur Contest" last year?

J. G. T. of Walpole.

A—No indeed. Barry started his trek to singing fame at the tender age of eleven when he sang professionally on the stage in Chicago, and later joined orchestras.

Q—On the Phil Baker programs how does "Beetle" make his voice sound so weird and hollow? Also is "Bottle" a real Englishman?

Buster, of Cambridge.

A—He uses an ordinary drinking glass to talk into—try it. Yes, Harry (Bottle) McNaughton is very decidedly a Britisher.

Q—Tell us, please, who takes the part of "Red" Davis on the broadcast by that name? How old is he—is he good looking and can we get a picture of him? Peggy

A—He is Burgess Meredith, age 27 years and considered a very handsome young man. Drop a line to Radio City, New York, for the photo request.

Q—Can you let us know if "The Goldbergs" are now on the air and when? Also through what station? Eleanor, of Medford

A—No, the sketch is not being broadcast at present.

Q—Is the fellow Warren Sullivan of Dorchester singing under the name of Morton Bowe or is the latter his right name?—Mrs. A. D., of Dorchester.

A—Morton Bowe is the correct name and he is now in New York, formerly a Boston newspaper worker.

Q—What has become of the orchestra leader, Joe Solomon?

A—Joe is now the pianist, special arranger and right hand man for Jacques Renard, the Cocoanut Grove maestro.

Q—Does Carl Moore take the part of "Dash" in the "Dot and Dash" period on Saturday morning over WNAC waves?—R. M. M., of Dorchester.

A—Very clever your calling it the "Dot and Dash Period," or did you realize it (comma) anyway the answer is yes. Alice O'Leary is the "Dot" you hear.

Send your questions to the Radio Editor of the Boston Evening American, then watch this space for the answers you seek.

Hasty Pudding Dance Week's Highlight on Debs' List

By BETTY ALDEN

ONE OF THE greatest evidences of the popularity of the debs is the invitation list of the Hasty Pudding dance, which usually occurs late in the season when the debs have been out almost a full year . . . The Pudding Men, who are invited to nearly every deb party, have had a chance to dance with all of the girls and by now have a pretty good idea of which ones are the most charming and appealing and therefore worthy of being on the list for their dance . . .

Mrs. Philip C. Barney

The gay young group which will throng through the ancient portals of the Pudding House on Holyoke street on next Friday evening will be attired in costumes . . . wild, comical, exotic, feminine, weird and fantastic . . . whatever their clever imaginations can conceive in the way of fancy dress . . .

Heads Patronesses

MRS. S. HUNTINGTON WOLCOTT heads the list of patronesses and will be assisted by Mrs. Archibald Blanchard, Mrs. Gerald D. Boardman, Mrs. Robert Saltonstall and Mrs. William E. Ladd . . .

Alfred Harrison and Frederick M. Dearborn from the Pudding's graduate students will head the ushers and the corps will also include Robert B. Cutler, Shaun Kelly, Robert S. Wolcott, Edward P. Currier, Jr., Philip Saltonstall Weld, Edwin H. B. Pratt, Donald E. Jackson, Jr., Graham King, Edward H. Gerry, Gordon Robertson, and Arthur Perry, Jr. . . .

Also Randolph Kidder, David Murray, Charles F. Woodard, Curtis Prout, Charles S. Bellows and John N. B. Pell . . .

The Hasty Pudding party will round out a busy evening for the young set . . . many of the belles of the ball will first dance and sing before the footlights at the Wilbur in the Vincent Ventures . . . while their beaus enjoy their acting from the audience . . .

The Vincent Club is still holding the limelight . . . with the show only three days from the boards . . .

The debs are selling tickets for the show at Wilbar's Shoe Store and at Herricks . . . Who knows . . . that program you purchase from Isabel Porter or one of her bevy of program girls, may hold the magic number entitling you to a prize . . .

Among the program girls will be Mrs. Philip C. Barney, Priscilla Bramhall, Betty Clark, Joe Emery and Polly Clark . . . Also Jeanne Richardson, Caroline Hunnewell, Mary Nesmith, Anne Sutton and Polly Winslow . . .

What the Fashionables Are Doing

TRIVIA AND ODDMENT OF THE WEEK-END . . . Serita Bartlett, with a tall, handsome escort, enjoying every scene of "The Drunkard" . . . no inhibitions in the audiences at this old-fashioned melodrama, where one is invited to cheer or boo as the spirit moves . . .

Kathleen Hall promenading with Talcott Banks at Jordan Hall between numbers in the Peoples Symphony concert . . . Kathleen's little sister, Olivia Hall, who is an accomplished harpist, was with them.

Charlotte Hopkins, back in town from a lengthy and interesting visit with her sister in Brussels, telling her friends all about it at the Barclay Club . . . Barbara Frost, in a black and silver afternoon dress, at the same club, proving to Mitchell Putnam that she is up on the latest dance steps . . .

Another young lady who keeps herself at the top of the boys' invitation lists is Polly Cotter, who was with Bob Beattie, at the Barclay . . . Betty Mitchell and Reed Stanwood were seen in a serious discussion at one of the cosy corner tables . . .

Jane Locke and Ambrose McCabe continued to dodge any reference to the state of their romance . . . neither denials nor affirmations can be drawn out of this couple, who in the meantime never miss a Saturday evening dancing under the spell of Jackie Marshard's music . . .

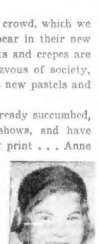
Spring Outfits Appear

IT IS A LITTLE too early for the young crowd, which we hear is so strictly budgeted nowadays, to appear in their new spring chiffons and laces . . . last fall's velvets and crepes are doing their last rounds of the dancing rendezvous of society, but will very soon be discarded for glamorous new pastels and prints . . .

Anne Torbert and Faith Chipman have already succumbed, probably at one of the numerous fashion shows, and have stretched their allowances to include a spring print . . . Anne was beaued by Horace White and Jack Torbert escorted Faith . . .



Martha Seabury

Bill McGuckin, who attracts so much attention when he swings a polo mallet, and who hasn't disappointed the hopeful debs by announcing the lady of his choice as yet, was with Sally Waters . . .

Martha Seabury and George Parsons came in from Weston for an evening of fun . . . and we also glimpsed in the crowd which surrounded the orchestra to learn the catchy new tunes, the Bob Chiltons, the David Stones, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ellis, Peggy Paine, Roddy Emerson, Jane Smith and Keith Steele, Peggy Clark, Jane Gibbs with Bill Hollander . . .

When the Roma sailed out of the harbor yesterday afternoon, with flags flying, an aeroplane escort and whistling sirens, Olga Monks and her mother were among those on deck waving a farewell to friends on shore . . . The Harold Sears, Mrs. John N. Stevens, the B. H. Bristow Drapers and Mrs. Thomas B. Gannett were fellow passengers aboard the Roma bound from the Bay State to Trieste . . .

ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL BRINKLEY

Living With In-Laws Depends On Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I HAVE a letter from a man who wants to get married, but has to support his mother, as his father is dead and his brothers are out of work. He says:

"I'd like to know if it would be a good idea if we did get married, and lived with my family for about six months or a year.

"My brothers might get jobs and then, with myself and my girl working we could save and start our own home. At present I haven't money to build a home."

I think it depends entirely on the girl to whom he is engaged. If she is willing to live with his family for a year or so until the brothers find jobs, there is no reason why it would not work out very well.

Few people are able to start married life with a place of their own, and sometimes it is better to have that to look forward to and to work for, together. However, it all depends on the girl. There have been many cases where this arrangement has worked out perfectly.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My best girl friend is engaged to a charming man; naturally, I've seen him often at her house. He has always been very nice to me, paid me a stray compliment or two, but has seemed absolutely loyal to the girl to whom he is engaged.

His fiancee asked him to take me home from a small informal dance at her house the other evening. He had a few highballs before he left, but was not under the influence of liquor. He made violent love to me in his car, threw his arms around me, and asked me to run away and marry him.

I was flattered, but scared almost crazy, too. I like this fellow, but I want to do the right thing by my friend. Should I tell my friend? He's 23 and I'm 19. EZLSIE

If this young man is prepared to throw over the girl to whom he is engaged, without cause or notice, you may be sure he will treat you or any other girl with equal disregard. A man of 23 ought to know what he is doing. If he doesn't, you have only to send him about his business.

Beauty Answers

Question: Will the use of tar shampoo darken blond hair? I have been using tar soap on my hair for a while and it seems to be gradually growing darker. Please tell me whether you think the tar is responsible for this.
MRS. F. C., Roxbury.

Answer: Tar soap will sometimes have that effect on blond hair, but it is just a stain and can easily be washed out with a castile shampoo. Why not try using a rinse of strained lemon juice or a camomile rinse. To prepare a camomile rinse steep two ounces of camomile leaves in a quart of boiling water. Strain the solution in a cloth strainer. Cloth is better than a wire strainer because it removes all sediment.

Question: I have been bleaching my hair for years and now the shafts are dry and pitiful. I believe that the condition is what you would call "over-bleached." Is there a shampoo that would help this condition?
W. W. T., Boston.

Answer: The best shampoo for overbleached hair is the egg shampoo. For the average head, seven or eight are necessary. It takes at least that many to form up and penetrate the growth to the scalp. Here is the way to make such a shampoo. Beat a number of eggs lightly with a fork. Rinse the hair and apply half the eggs. Then rinse again and apply the rest of the eggs. Use a spray to get all the egg mixture out of the hair and rinse again and again until the hair is free of all particles. For a final rinse, use a quart of tepid water in which the juice of two lemons has been squeezed.

The Fortunes of Fanny -:- -:- At Twenty . .

" NOW FANNY ! "

SIXTEEN is—to a young girl—EONS behind. The hardware boy is strangely without thrill, when she remembers him at all. The burden of Fanny's song has been for some time, "Oh Mo-THER, Father, WHY don't we go abroad as other people do? People in OUR position DO go."

And at last Fanny has worn them down. Mother secretly would like it. And though Father has TOO much to do, along about the time he shamefacedly indulges himself in the loud but expensive top-coat that Fanny "adores," HE rather likes the idea himself. Europe for the first time! The sea.

And of course Fanny, twenty now, must fall in love. On a ship—and NOT fall in love? Even older than Fanny, they do it.

Moonlight, rolling, restless sea, dark blue and rythimical, lit by gleams like jewels far down the ship's side. An evening frock that makes Fanny feel like a Princess incognito. And the ship's Doctor! Fanny writes home to her best girl-friend that he "is devine! Such a strong face; so brown, with silver hair. He looks weary, and reserved. I KNOW he needs somebody to understand him. And the red and gold on his sleeves. My DEAR! I have met the love in my life!"

At Southampton Fanny (Fanchan to the Doctor) was "down" and thought she would die if she never saw him again. And Mother and Father said: "NOW, FANNY!" NELL BRINKLEY.

AVIS AGREES TO RETURN TO ROOM

CHAPTER 289

AVIS ARLEN did not wait for the end of Lillian's sentence.

"Oh! I'll go back right away. But you must help me get back through the window. If I go back through the corridor, she might hear me and know I'd broken my promise to him. But I didn't think going out of the window to the balcony for a bit of fresh air was breaking it. Do you think he'll consider that it was?"

My father's threat to lock her up in a room if she disobeyed him had had the same effect that an earlier similar threat from Lillian and me had brought out—to reduce her to terror-stricken obedience.

"APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY"

Lillian employed a bit of "applied psychology" in answering her, waiting at least a second before she spoke, while Avis' terrified eyes were fixed upon her.

"I don't think the question need ever come up," she said judicially at last. "Well boost you into that window right away, and trust to Providence that your mother won't wake up and scream. Even if she does, and Mr. Spencer should hear her and investigate, we're all here to swear that you didn't go out into the corridor, as he forbade you to do. But you must come with us now, this minute, and get back through the window."

"All right," the girl replied weakly, drawing a long, tremulous breath. "I'll do anything you say, Hugh!" as she turned back to him with an appealing gesture. "You'll help me through the window, won't you? I'm so trembly I'm afraid to try it with anybody else, and you're so strong."

"He's so strong," Lillian repeated—and I wondered if Hugh caught the delicately devilish laughter in her voice—"that he can balance himself on that bedslat on one foot and toss you through the window with one hand, doing it so lightly and with such infinite skill that you'll probably land in your bed with one ear on your pillow."

Hugh gave an inarticulate little sound which I knew spelled exasperation, and Lillian, who generally knows when to stop, rose abruptly.

"Come on out now," she said, "Madge you would better stay inside so that you can answer the door if anybody knocks."

Avis rushed swiftly toward the French windows, hauling Hugh after her by means of the clinging grasp with which she had made sure his hand would not get away from her. As Lillian followed them and passed me she spoke in the noiseless way she has so perfected.

"Pipe this!" she said. "It's going to be good. No reason why you can't have a ringside seat, even if you are doorkeeper. Plant yourself just inside the windows and get an eyeful."

I did as she bade me and from the vantage paint of the curtained French windows I witnessed a mirth-provoking little spectacle. For, despite Lillian's prediction of Hugh's prowess, it proved to be an impossible thing owing to the height of its opening and the narrowness of the opening for him to lift Avis through it. All he could do was to hold the bed slat steady while Avis, with Lillian steadying her, wiggled her way up the board, hitching up an inch at a time, and finally clambered in at the window.

AVIS AT A DISADVANTAGE

Avis is not remarkable for her grace, and so much of her appeal depends upon her costuming and make-up that she was under a severe handicap in the hitching stunt. I was reminded irresistibly of the comment Mary had made upon her—that Avis "looked so much like a horse in her pajamas I was tempted to say 'Giddap.'"

Almost as mirth-provoking as the appearance of Avis was the distressed and embarrassed look upon Hugh Grantland's face, and when Avis disappeared through the window I hurried back to my chair, and looked up innocently as they came back through the windows.

"Did you get her back safely?" I asked.

"Yes, the anointed little liar," Lillian said viciously.

Counting the Hand

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When the scores were posted in the Grand National Mixed team-of-four event, great surprise was manifested at the result of one hand.

The contract was the same at every table, yet only one player succeeded in making an overtrick.

This was Mr. James H. Lemon of Washington, D. C., who, paired with his charming wife, made an impressive showing in the tournament.

The hand is interesting and an excellent object lesson in the value of counting out the hand.

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠K J 8 6 3 ♡A 10 8 5 ◇8 5 ♣A 9
♠10 7 4 2 ♡Q J 9 6 ◇Q J ♣J 6 2	North West East South	♠Q 9 5 ♡— ◇K 9 6 4 3 ♣K 10 8 5 3
	♠A ♡K 7 4 3 2 ◇A 10 7 2 ♣Q 7 4

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
3	Pass	4 ♣ (1)	Pass
4 ♡ (2)	Pass	Pass (3)	Pass

(1) Despite the lack of a fit in spades, the confirmation of the heart suit encourages slam hopes. The four club bid is a slam try since South is willing to play for twelve tricks if North can furnish protection against the immediate loss of two club tricks.

(2) North's previous assist was based entirely upon distribution. Despite the assistance for the clubs, North is unable to go any further. He therefore negatives the slam try.

(3) South abides by North's decision.

West opened the Queen of diamonds, which was permitted to hold. He continued With the Jack, declarer winning with the Ace.

The King of Hearts was laid down, and Mr. Lemon discovered the sad news about the trump suit. The Ace of spades was cashed and a low diamond led.

West saw no point in ruffing, so discarded a club. Had he discarded a spade, declarer would have been held to four-odd.

The diamond was ruffed in dummy and the King of spades furnished a club discard. A low spade was ruffed, East's Queen falling.

West's hand counted out perfectly. He had started with four trumps, four spades (since the drop of the Queen marked East with only three), only two diamonds and necessarily three clubs to complete the thirteen cards.

Mr. Lemon led a club to the Ace, discarding the Queen of clubs on the Jack of spades. Dummy's low club was then ruffed. At this point West held the Queen-Jack and nine of trumps and dummy the Ace-ten of trumps and a spade.

Declarer led the ten of diamonds and West was helpless. He ruffed with the Jack, but Mr. Lemon was not to be lured into overruffing. Dummy's low spade was discarded and West had to lend to dummy's major trump tenace at Trick 12.

Dishes for Lenten Meets

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

ALTHOUGH the next forty days is not a time for feasting, many groups will be meeting for practical purposes and serving luncheons and suppers in quantity.

Maybe you are on the committee preparing school lunches and serving nourishing dishes to make strong, healthy bodies.

Dishes using cheese, eggs, salmon, creamed are delicious, easy to prepare and economical to serve.

Pour half the sauce over the potatoes. Add a layer of flaked salmon to each casserole, cover with remaining sauce and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. Garnish each casserole with a border of mashed potatoes forced through a pastry tube. Any left-over flaked fish may be used in place of salmon. Approximate cost per serving, 10c.

1 quart soft bread crumbs
¼ cup butter
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1½ tbsps. chopped onion
1½ tbsps. chopped parsley

Scented Baths

(POSED BY JOAN BENNETT)

Inexpensive Water Softeners You'll Like

By JULIET SHELBY

THE TROUBLE with many bath accessories, especially water softeners and fragrances, is that they are priced too high.

Instead of becoming a part of the bath routine, they remain on the bathroom shelf as a luxury to be indulged in only on gala occasions!

I know what women can and cannot afford in cosmetics; I know that a woman will do without a scented bath while she would not do without her powder and rouge or a wave-set each week.

If you can forego a fancy bottle or an ornate container, you may have your scented bath every day at little cost—and as such a bath is very conducive to poise and gives a "lift" along our mundane lives, you should not sacrifice this necessary pleasure.

In cloth sacks, I've pounds to the sack, come three very refreshing water softeners—floral, pine and lavender. They are composed of pulverized crystals that are beautifully scented and endowed with the power to change hard water into soft. A generous handful to a tub of water does the trick.

The sacks are not unattractive and I find them easier to place about a bathroom than cans and jars; and the comfort you get from the knowledge that you are not paying for the container more than compensates for any lack of beauty.

Many of the young Hollywood stars prefer scented baths to those which are not scented, and perhaps that is why one feels the beauty of early spring while in their company.

If you wish to know the name of these new inexpensive water softeners, call Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000, or write to her in the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WELL-BRED WAYS IN AWKWARD SITUATIONS

KNOWING when to be quick with her purse, and when to forget she ever had one is important for a woman who appears often with men friends in public.

It saves them both embarrassment. As, for example, in the following situations:

Suppose a woman meets a friend in a railway station—by design or accident. She buys her own ticket, in either case. If she knows the man is to meet her, she will prove herself especially thoughtful if she buys her ticket before the meeting. Even if both of them are bound for the same destination—say a week-end party—the woman will pay all her own expenses. If—while she is selecting magazines and candy—her friend should plunge a quick hand into his pocket, exclaiming, "Allow me!" her cue is to answer just as quickly, "Oh, thank you, I have the change right here!"

On the other hand; if a man encounters a woman as she is getting into a car or bus and pays her fare, it is too trifling a matter for her to make a protest.

Dinner at a Restaurant

Another situation sometimes asked about: When a woman entertains, in a restaurant, a party which includes men, it saves embarrassment all around if she makes arrangements beforehand. Even when she entertains women, this is a nice courtesy.

When a man invites a woman to dinner or the theater, naturally on him alone falls the payment of taxi fares, tickets, dinner checks, tips. The woman pays her way by being charming.

Love Denied

Sharlene Is Not 'Broke'

CHAPTER 48

"Do you want me to go, Stuart?" she asked, fighting back the tears. "Has it been so—dreadful—for you?"

"It's time it ended," was all he said.

There was a long silence. Then Sharlene asked, very low: "You believe that I'll go back to him?"

"I know it. I saw it work before. Once you lay eyes on him —"

"I won't! I won't! I hate him!" she said with a sudden blaze of anger.

"No you don't, Sharlene. You can't help yourself. It's old Mother Nature . . . And I gathered this morning that the Julie menace is about over—"

"Julie!" Her lip curled bitterly. "Cora—Julie—who knows who's next—"

"Well, I imagine he'll be penitent—after four months of Julie! You can make your own terms."

She regarded him resentfully. "What a life for me! And yet you seem to want to push me into his arms."

"No. I just want to hasten the inevitable and get through with it."

She tightened her lips and got up to clear the table. "It's just as well to know where I stand," she said, slamming the dishes together. "Since I'm such a nuisance to you I'll go gladly but I won't go back to him!"

She Has Money

She carried the dishes into the kitchen, head high in the air.

Stuart stared intently at a bird plucking worms out of the newly spaded bed. Presently he got up and went through the house. "I'm going down town for supplies," he called to Sharlene in the kitchen.

She did not turn from the sink, but splashed water loudly from the tap to cover the quiver of her voice as she called back: "All right."

Before making his purchases at the art store Stuart stopped in to see Mr. [illegible]

"I want to [illegible] house in [illegible]

[illegible]

"Broke? Did she but that was a [illegible]. She's had heavy losses of course but she refuses to take them seriously. About a month ago when she was up here I was arguing against her throwing good money after bad into a certain worthless investment, and I finally said, 'Sharlene, you're broke!' Did that phase her? No! She took it as if I'd given her a present.

"Jumped to her feet, all excited, and said, 'That's splendid, thank you! It's only when you're broke, Mr. Folsom, that there's a chance of picking up the pieces.' She tore out of here as if she was going to a fire, and I haven't heard from her since except that she called up to say she was going East and that she'd had her bank statement sent to me. Odd.

"She hasn't cashed a check since. Some whim or other. women, you know, Mr Pennington. But of course she was joking with you—"

Asked to Studio

"You mean," Stuart spoke slowly in a bewildered way, "she has—a lot of money, yet?"

"Certainly. Even if the Standring Company failed. She has a lot of good solid government bonds and some really handsome first mortgages. I should hope I'd do my duty by the trust better than to let it all be wiped out, even in these bad times."

"Does she know?"

"Of course."

"Come up to the studio some time. Perhaps you'd like to see the library panels I'm doing."

"Thanks," the lawyer said eagerly. "That will be something to look forward to."

There was a tremendous bustle of business about the Damerel offices that morning. When Julie sauntered in she refused to be deterred by the flustered secretary and walked into Kent's private office. He was deeply involved with [illegible]

[illegible]

"Oh, Susan said she was going East."

[illegible]

Up at Stuart's [illegible] back to living with her [illegible] I haven't been [illegible]

[illegible]

Gone in Rush

"Give me that address. I'll be back as soon as possible."

He was gone in a rush, with the implacable air of a man who will brook no opposition to his will.

And it was in such a mood that he faced Sharlene across Stuart Pennington's threshold. She backed away from the door, intently as Kent strode into the studio.

"Pennington here?" he asked after a swift glance around.

"No."

"What are you doing here Sharlene, in his house?"

"What right have you to ask?" Her voice was very low, very controlled.

"I believe I'm still your husband."

She shook her head. "You ceased to be that one rainy night last November. We can attend to the legal separation now that you're back in this country."

He laid his hat down on the table carefully, and when he turned his manner had changed from its first belligerency to one almost of apology.

Frocks Take to Capes

By Annice Brink

WHEN is a frock a suit? When it has a cape or a jacket—which means that nine out of ten frocks this Spring have disguised themselves as suits. It is a great wonder the idea has never been thoroughly exploited before, because it's thoroughly practical. A jacket or cape makes a crepe frock so completely suitable for street wear. Here is a budget crepe (under seven dollars) that has a lighter side—a cape lined with the print matching the short-sleeved bodice top. You may flaunt the bright lining inside out, if you wish. The frock is from a Boston shop; for further information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman Says:

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When our baby arrives, I want to send announcements to our friends. I have been looking at the semi-engraved cards, but most of them have touches of pink or blue, and I do want white cards. The only white card I saw had so much on it, even a line for "weight" and "remarks."

1. I enclose cards such as I would like. Do you favor them? Should they be fastened together? If so how and where? T. D.

Thank you so much for your friendly comment, and for your thoroughly delightful letter. It was a joy . . . a joy to see a letter written in such excellent form, and with a perfect form of signature!

I so entirely agree with you that the white cards are so vastly more attractive for birth announcements than any with touches of pink or blue. And I agree with you too that it is most unattractive to register anything on these announcements except the name of the baby and the date of its birth. The words "weight" or "place of birth" or "remarks" give a provincial appearance to the cards.

1. The type of cards that you send me have distinct dignity, and I see no reason why you should not use them. I think that if you could get somewhat the same kind with a plain smooth finish instead of the linen finish they would be even more attractive.

The sizes individually and relatively are excellent. It is best to fasten them together . . . with tiny narrow white ribbon, at the center of the top a bit down from the top, the ribbon forming a small bow. The edges of the cards should be together at the top, and on each side the baby cards should be together at the top, and on each side the baby card should allow an even margin.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Follow the Man who reads the METER

Ice cubes are no longer a novelty to the rich, but seventy-five per cent of America's electrically wired homes still have an ice card in the window.

If you want to know where to sell electrical refrigerators, radios, vacuum sweepers, washing machines or any other electrical household equipment, follow the man who reads the meters.

For the information of manufacturers, there is one publication that concentrates 78% of its circulation in those 439 richest counties wherein are located 74% of this country's electrically wired homes. That publication is The American Weekly—mightiest of all magazines.

The next largest magazine, with less than half The American Weekly's circulation, finds only 73% of its readers in these important counties.

To SELL in volume, you MUST reach PEOPLE in volume.

For $16,000 you can buy a great color page in The American Weekly and put your sales message into more than five and one-half million homes located in the richest buying areas of the nation.

At a cost of less than one-third cent per family you can address the greatest possible number of buyers through the pages of what is, editorially speaking, the most interesting magazine in the world.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Hearst Sunday Newspapers. In 597 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 67% of its circulation.

In each of 134 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 125 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 165 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 173 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,885,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

AUSTEN LAKE on Lefty's Nature Sours as His Condition Sweetens

Sarasota, Fla., March 11.

LEFTY GROVE IS UNDERGOING a chemical change. Where, in the first days of this training party, Lefty was chirpy as a morning bird, fun-loving as a Newfoundland puppy and talkative as a country barber, now he is going back to his taciturn, surly moods with the lean grooves beside his mouth set as though chiseled from granite.

Austen Lake

Perhaps the answer is that Lefty is getting into physical shape again, so that his winter's insulation of fat has been shucked off his nervous system, leaving his feelings nearer the raw.

Leastwise, Alan Gould, the A. P. sports editor, hove into town recently, ambled over to the Sox tumbledown training shack and found Lefty sitting on a property trunk, steaming with perspiration. He would like, said Alan, to have a few choice words from Lefty.

The choice words were four, terse and gutteral, "Huh, I ain't talkin'." Alan agreed, that as words go, these were few enough.

Maxie's 1934 Bulges; His 1935 Flats

AS HE STEPS INTO THE shower room, in his nude, naked altogether, Max Bishop is as flat across the stomach as a side of butcher's beef. Where last season he arrived wearing a watermelon bulge, dribs of candle suet swells and curves, now there are angles, flats and hollows.

It speaks the sudden realization for Maxie that he is nearing his physical autumn and may no longer accumulate heavy layers of padding in the off season, lest the shock of sudden removal poison his system and tax his strength.

For Max as with all athletes approaching their twilight stage, training is no longer merely a seasonal tussle. It is a twelve-month round of food vigilance and continual exercise. He seems to have learned this painful lesson since last year.

Dahlgren's Good Luck

ELLSWORTH DAHLGREN, the blocky, cub first baseman, is in a lucky spot for a kid apprentice. Across the field he has Billy Werber and Joe Cronin, who throw rifle shots like marine marksmen.

But Dahlgren's luck is in the fact that both Billy and Joe are uncommonly strong batsmen for a third baseman and a shortstop, positions where fielding is the No. 1 virtue and batting secondary.

Further, on the other hand, is always regarded as a reservoir for hitting power and a spot where lack of fielding finish is often ignored for a man's ability to flog the ball.

Yet here, with the extra margin of Werber's and Cronin's hitting, the club can afford to be patient if Dahlgren's punch is slow in developing. At this early stage he seems to be a smoother workman around the bag than any since Phil Todt's time.

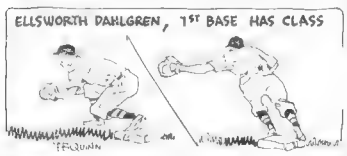
Pitching Foibles

PITCHING HABITS VARY among the most seasoned veterans. Wes Ferrell will not allow his brother Rick, or any other catcher to hold up his glove as a pitching target. It disturbs his control.

Grove and Walberg demand a glove target in training games.



Pigeras makes his catcher stand half-erect, so that he can aim at various spots of his catching gear, the leather kneecap, the stomach crease in his protector or his shoulder harness.

Ferrell, as a cocky, headstrong type, insists in pitching his own game, frequently "shaking off" brother Rick's signals, by the simple device of standing motionless and staring after the finger-sign is made, until Rick crouches again and changes the order.

Grove, Walberg, Johnson, Rhodes, Ostermueller very seldom "shake off" a pitching sign, content to accept the judgment of bald and amiable Rick, who is regarded only second to Cochrane as a handler, and second to none as an all round catcher.

Random Thoughts

DESPITE AL ECHACHT'S deafness, which requires conversational in shouts, he can hear Cronin's voice even when he whispers . . . The combination of a bad batting background, a head-on breeze, and the wooden quality of the 1934 leftover baseballs being used, has made hitting, during practice sessions, a series of pop flies and tame grounders . . . The hotel menu of such items as crabmeat salads, fried scallops, braised kidneys with mushroom sauce, has sent Joe Cronin into the kitchen again to demand that the players' fare be made simpler and more substantial. Joe is strictly a plain fodder-man, with fondness for liquids, fruits, greens and unseasoned foods. Also he has an inordinate sweet tooth for pastries, cake, and puddings, which requires his utmost will power to subdue.

Cronin, Child of Circumstance

CRONIN WAS BORN IN San Francisco, a few months after the earthquake. He holds the unique theory that the earthquake was directly responsible for making him a ball player.

His family was dispossessed of its intown property when the seismic convulsion took place. The Cronins, including the two grown sons who preceded Joe, then unborn, moved to the outskirts of the city, next door to a beautiful park playground.

Thus when Joe was born in October of 1905 and grew sturdy, the neighboring playground was the schoolroom where he learned the rudiments of the game. The older brothers, lacking opportunity, never played baseball.

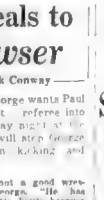
Mr. Boston George Appeals to Bowser

By Jack Conway

ED DON George wants Paul Bowser to put referee into the ring Friday night at the Garden who will stop George Zaharas from kicking and punching.

"Zaharas is not a good wrestler," said George. "He has been winning his bouts because the referees have been permitting him to violate all of the rules of the mat game. This is how he defeated Vic Christie and Dick Luise."



Mr. Boston

Bowser has not yet named the referee for Friday night's bout, but he refused to tell George whether he would insist that the official prevent Zaharas from punching and kicking.

Zaharas charges that George realizes he has made a bad match, and that he is now trying to back out. Zaharas is a big, powerful fellow and should give the champion a stirring battle.

Ernie Dusek will have Gino Garibaldi as an opponent in the semi-final. In the preliminaries Abe Coleman will oppose Pat McKay, Scotty McDougal will clash with Otis Jacobson, Leo Numa will take on Bob Russell, "Bull" Martin will collide with Len Macaluso while John Spellman will oppose Frank Sexton, former Ohio State football star.

RACING OUTLOOK

THERE should be a definite decision on horse racing in Massachusetts before the week ends.

Walter O'Hara will be home from Florida, and will be forced either to say a song with the Suffolk Downs track in East Boston, or make a definite break that will take him to Narragansett or Massachusetts racing entirely.

O'Hara has already announced he is through with Suffolk Downs, but it is hinted he may change his mind in the event he finds the East Boston track is going to be built under any conditions.

Charles F. Adams and Bruce Wetmore insist there will be a track in East Boston whether O'Hara is connected with it or not. Adams and Wetmore have the money to carry through their plans.

The Norwood group is still in the field for a permit for a race track while a powerful financial combination would like to erect a track in Springfield.

It would be to the advantage of Narragansett Park if there won't be a track in Massachusetts, but the people behind Suffolk Downs are not interested in this phase of the situation.

They intend to carry through. It is said they have the assurance of the Racing Commission that they will be granted a permit.

The Racing Commission is anxious for Massachusetts to have a horse race track this year. Otherwise there would not be any excuse for its existence.

The public has enough of a tax burden without being obliged to support a Racing Commission which has no racing from which to get revenue.

FLORIDA RACING

HIALEAH at Miami, Fla., had a successful racing season. The mutuel handle didn't compare with the handle at Rockingham and Narragansett, but it was bigger in Florida nevertheless. The meet has moved over to Tropical Park where some fast class racing is expected.

A few years ago few people from the North remained there after the racing at Miami got as a result of the racing boats go were not so successful.

The last two seasons conditions have been different and the crowds in Florida have been to Tropical Park will benefit from this new order of things this year.

AIDS CHARITY

Dave Wilson was a fan in picking Paul Mundy as the bout's likely winner. Dave's choice proved good for Mundy, hoping Dave had a big win on his selection. I find that most of our best betting tips are last minute shifts and often be sure their advice proves costly.

Dan O'Mahoney, light heavyweight champion, will wrestle Al Pinck at Albany tomorrow night. He will also make two bouts in Baltimore and Washington in a week and then leave for New York where he will team with Jim Browning at the Garden in a St. Patrick's Night show. Jake Fuchs confirms my story that the Braves are to start will be a complete sell-out for the opening game. The Braves' pavilion of Polo Park has given a powerful drive to the advance ticket drive of the Tribe.

Al McCoy will take a few days of rest and then return to the gym to train for Patsy Perroni bout with Tony Shucco, which will be staged by the Goodwin A. C. at the Garden on March 22. McCoy is one of the finest looking ring prospects to bob to the front in recent months.

RUNS IN Tropical SEVENTH

WHITE ENTRY RAZOR SHARP

By Dave Wilson

BEST BET—FAIRLY WILD—7TH

Tropical Park, Fla., March 11—Fairly Wild, a sturdy router, looms as a "spread" in the one mile and a furlong of the seventh number here tomorrow afternoon.

FIRST RACE
MOANE KEALA, SCOTCH GOLD, WALK ALONG

The White entry of MOANE KEALA and SCOTCH GOLD is entitled in a three-way rating Either is capable of winning and they may finish one-two. WALK ALONG, the main dancer displayed improvement in his last outing.

SECOND RACE
FLIGHT OF GOLD, JADAAN, CHICKLE SHIP

FLIGHT OF GOLD will be hard to handle if he runs back to his last race. JADAAN, a well bred trick, breezed six points in 1.14, for a final CHICKLE SHIP may be under-rated.

THIRD RACE
BANDERILLA, DELIBERATOR, STARBOROUGH

BANDERILLA, a gun from the barrier, may take the top and never be headed in this affair DELIBERATOR, a clever Hialeah winner, figures next best. STARBOROUGH [illegible]

FOURTH RACE
DARK WAR, MAD BETH, PRINCE DRAKE

DARK WAR could handle a field of this sort, if able to get off the [illegible] MAD BETH always better than her recent form indicates. May come to life. PRINCE DRAKE, freshened up nicely, is on razor edge if the work tab is any criterion.

FIFTH RACE
BOUNDING COUNT, SHOW BOY, COL. GREENE

BOUNDING COUNT, a slow beginner, figures to be song in time to beat this ordinary lot. SHOW BOY, unlucky last time is strictly the one to fear. COL. GREENE is in nicely.

SIXTH RACE
Guiding Light, Transbird, Jubitzer

GUIDING LIGHT is a might [illegible] TRANSBIRD figures have won his last start, but for poor handling. TRANSBIRD figures better than Kibitzer. The latter runs good when fresh

SEVENTH RACE
Fairly Wild, Cousin George, Flaxen

FAIRLY WILD outside one in the light in this number. COUSIN GEORGE and FLAXEN are the main dangers. They are fancied as [illegible]

TAP'S TIPS

As a spectacle, however, it can't very well be topped. The sight of one of the two tall towers falling to the canvas would be worth the price of admission alone.

SHARKEY To Referee MAT BOUT

Jack Sharkey has volunteered to referee the first wrestling bout held at the B. A. A. in more than 20 years. It will take place Thursday night.

Charley Strack and Arthur LeFabre are the grapplers who will narrow the action in the mat quarrel. They have been furnished by [illegible] who is a member of the B. A. A.

In addition to the wrestling show, there will be amateur ring contests at 126, 147 and 160 pounds.

Sam Smith will also referee at the B. A. A. show.

NO REST FOR WEARY BIKE RACERS

AL LETOURNER MRS. GEORGETTI ALLESANDRA GEORGETTI FRANCO GEORGETTI

(Picture by International News Photograph Service)

Rest is all very well, but when baby wants to play even six-day racers must shake off sleep. Letourner and Georgetti won the six-day race last week at the N. Y. Garden. Early Sunday Letourner was up and away to call on his teammate. Baby Allesandra kept the pair awake for the balance of the day.

PRIMO, 'Impel' GO FRIDAY

[illegible] March 11 (AP)—Despite all the point of view, it will be either a pugilistic dream or a nightmare that Madison Square Garden will offer on Friday night.

Label it what you will, the 10-round bout between Primo Carnera and Ray Impellitiere looks like the best box office bet the Garden has had all winter.

In a meeting between two such behemoths, physical advantages have only an academic interest. Carnera scores over Ray in the matter of weight, 260 pounds to 238, but yields in height, 6 feet 5 inches to 6 feet 7½.

[illegible] direction of a title bout with Max Baer, which he may or may not get, already has been installed 2 to 1 favorite over the Perkskill, N. Y., he boy.

If a fighter's punching power were in direct ratio to his weight the cannon on Friday would stagger the imagination. As a matter of fact, it isn't, and the bettor is close to even money that little [illegible] will [illegible] done.

Wilson Calls Turn on Black Helen

Dave Wilson, the outstanding handicapper in the East, once more showed how the art of handicapping the horses should be performed.

Saturday, Wilson, Boston Evening American turf editor, selected Black Helen, Morpiuck and Roman Soldier to finish in that order in the renewal of the $15,000 Florida Derby at Hialeah Park.

Black Helen won, paying $5.90 on every $2 mutuel ticket. Not content in picking the winner, Wilson's choice to finish third, Roman Soldier, did so.

For racing news that's going [illegible] read the Boston Evening American. Only in the American are found Dave Wilson's selections.

ROBBINS To Wrestle McDONALD

Winn Robbins, who doubles in brass between wrestling and playing drums in a local night club orchestra, is down to grapple Sandy McDonald in one of the prelims at the Mechanics building mat show tomorrow evening.

In the two out of three falls main bout, Ted Germaine is pitted against Jack Lucas, California star.

Two special 30-minute encounters are attracting a great deal of interest among Mechanics patrons, Boy Souleyman, the Praying Turk, meets Jose Firpo in one, while Dr. Louis Adelman, Back Bay medico, tangles with Jim Holland, the wrestling parson. Five other bouts will complete the card.

The first of the series of Golden Belt tournaments to decide the light heavyweight championship of New England will be held between 7.30 and 8.30, before the regular show.

SEXTON May Stage UPSET

Frank Sexton, spectacular young [illegible] who has rushed to the top with a nifty version of the Irish Whip, may cause one of the big upsets of the year when he meets Rudy Dusek in the main bout of Alex McLean's wrestling show at the Arena Wednesday.

Known as the "Powerhouse" when he played football at Ohio State, Sexton may prove altogether too rugged for ruthless Rudy in their two out of three falls match.

Frank Sexton

Dusek, with brothers Ernie and Emil, is expected in town tomorrow to put in a few final hours of training for the bout. He's heard reports on Sexton and is plainly worried.

With Rebel Bob Russell, Charlie Strack and Farmer George McLeod on the card, MacLean's mat menu is one of the most enticing of the season.

Rebel Russell will mix with George Linnehan in the semifinal, a one-fall affair with a 30-minute curfew.

Danno-Baer Go Sought

Baltimore, March 11—A mixed match between Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, and Dan O'Mahoney, Irish wrestling champion, is the goal of Ed Contos, Baltimore wrestling promoter.

Contos said he had wired Arell Hoffman, Baer's manager, an offer of $75,000 with a privilege of 37½ per cent of the gross gate for the bout.

The match would permit Baer to box and O'Mahoney to wrestle.

Y. M. H. A. Hoop CHOICE

FAVORED OVER W. E. HOUSE

By Bob Ahearn

Johnny Fox' Boston Y. M. H. A. varsity hoopsters will be a favorite over West End House when these two quintets clash in the second game of their annual series at the Arena Saturday.

Y. M. H. A. was in the short end of the score in the first meeting, but has since found itself, if its impressive victories over the City College of New York and Bronx Y. M. H. A. can be taken as a criterion.

West End House was defeated by the Bronx "Y", 38 to 23, in a Sabbath Day contest at the Boston street court, while on Saturday the Boston Y. M. H. A. beat the invaders from Gotham, 36 to 33.

Hookie Hyte is now back in shape and has rejoined the Y. M. H. A. team. And with the addition of Steve Stavisky, former Chelsea high captain, to the varsity from the Jewels lineup, the prospects of a win is bright for the "Y".

Both clubs, the Y. M. H. A and the West End, have planned stiff practice sessions this week in preparation for their meeting. A third game will be played if the Y. M. H. A. should win Saturday.

Three games are listed for the Greater Boston Amateur League this evening. McCarthy club of Winthrop plays the Brennan club at Somerville; Presentation meets the league leaders, Bunker Hill A. A. at the Charlestown Y. M. C. A., and St. Thomas club plays host to Bill Dempsey's Converse Rubber five.

MOORE Or Ready B. C. CAPTAIN

Tim Randy of Cambridge, goal tender, and Fred Moore of Brighton, center ice, are the leading candidates for the captaincy of the 1936 Boston College hockey team which is to be decided this week.

Both are juniors and have just completed two years of highly effective play on the varsity ice team.

Ready is considered the outstanding collegiate goal tender in New England and his sensational saves accounted for many of B. C.'s [illegible]

Moore has been a fixture [illegible] center for the last two seasons. His effective poke checking and generalship work have made him one of the most valued men on the sextet.

Huskies Release Track Schedule

Northeastern runners will engage in four dual outdoor tilts and three intercollegiate games, according to the tentative spring track schedule.

The Huskies will enter the Greater Boston Intercollegiates at the Harvard Stadium April 27 and the Colonial Meet at the Arena with the Wildcats at Durham, N. H.

The N. U. track team will travel to Springfield, May 11, to run against Springfield College, and on May 17 and 18 will compete in the New England Intercollegiate A. A. meet.

BANK Leagues CLOSE

SHAWMUT WINS PIN RACE

By Ed Cogswell

Into bowling history go 1934-35 records of the Bank & Trust League, the first of the major leagues to wind up its season's schedule, with Shawmut Bank winning the pennant by eight points over State Street.

Shawmut also won the team single with 539, while State Street captured the three-string team total with 1568.

[illegible] of Old Colony Trust, was awarded the individual high single by posting 129 and to Walter Forbush of Grange Trust went the three-string with 366.

Larry Carlson of State Street won the season's average with 99 to his credit.

Al Dugan

Bank & Trust is the oldest candlepin league now active, Randolph Parker of State Street Trust is president, while A. R. Dugan is secretary and treasurer. The annual banquet and business meeting will be held tomorrow evening.

To Secretary Dugan much of the success of the league may well be given. Not only is he an enthusiast in bowling, but he is an adept in recording the club's statistics. It was perhaps this interest that defeated him for the high single in the final match games.

Having a fair lead for the honor his attention was so widely scattered that his bowling fell below par, allowing Carlson to come [illegible] and knock him out by 14 [illegible]

TONIGHT'S CARD

This appears to be a large evening at the different alleys about town. To begin with, the Merkelmen's League gathers at North Station. The Gangelo team of the league to the top, shooting a total of 1574 in the last session, and a single in 538.

Morrissey led the troupe in action by garnering 338 pins, of which 141 were in the second string. He was helped along by J. Orasco, rolling a total of 331.

Armour, in the same league was the only other one to connect for 1567. Coldwell scooped off 323 and Dolan 321.

At the New Boston tonight will be seen the Insurance League in a strong aggregation, as was proved in the last meeting when Feld & Cowles scored 1561, and the J. C. Paige team came across with 1537. Parkman also Dunn were the heroes of the clash, each putting up scores of 344.

At the Twentieth Century, of which [illegible] is bowling [illegible] the [illegible] and figures being [illegible] McNulty was right there with a 333 opposite his mate.

Other leagues scheduled for this evening's [illegible] Hotel & Travel Service [illegible] Washington [illegible] Restaurant [illegible] Century National, Shawmut Bank and the Five Cents Savings [illegible] at 7.30 o'clock.

At the Arena, [illegible] School street, Merchants & Miners at South station, while at Shanley's will be [illegible] Hall Store M & P Public Theaters, First National Bank and the N. E. Transportation, Inc. [illegible] Pierce boys hold forth at Faneuil for their weekly frolic.

BAER BOUT FOR MAX

Hamas Stopped in 9th By Schmeling

GO IN N. Y. IN JUNE

Hamburg, March 11 (AP)—A Max Baer-Max Schmeling heavyweight fight for New York in June is "absolutely set," Joe Jacobs, the German's manager, told the Associated Press today after telephone conversations with Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, and James J. Johnston, his matchmaker.

"I agreed to terms for Schmeling," Jacobs said, "and Baer's terms already were set in his original contract with the Garden.

"It will be a great fight. Schmeling will win by a knockout sure. He's better than ever before."

The Black Uhlan who evened the score with Steve Hamas by knocking out the former Penn State collegian in the ninth round of yesterday's fight, hurried to Munich early today to join his wife.

Absolutely unmarked from the fight, Schmeling is tickled silly because his wife received a message of congratulations and a large bouquet of flowers from Chancellor Hitler after her husband's victory.

Before leaving Hamburg, Schmeling promised Jacobs he would reach New York late in April and begin work for the June fight early in May.

HAMAS TOURS

Hamas, his face badly puffed, left with Mrs. Hamas for Berlin. He will tour Germany and may fight once in England before sailing for home.

Today's papers criticized the Belgian referee, Val[illegible], for permitting the helpless Hamas to take such a terrific beating, but he exclaimed to the Associated Press that he acted under orders.

"German officers told me there must be an absolutely satisfactory ending of the fight with no chance for arguments. Anyway, the men in Hamas' corner could have stopped it anytime."

By Universal Service Special Cable

Hamburg, March 11—Deafening cheers of [illegible] countrymen spurred Max Schmeling to avenge a previous defeat by Steve Hamas and punch the husky Pennsylvanian from his path to a title bout with the world champion, Max Baer.

Schmeling won in the ninth round on a technical knockout when the referee stopped the fight to save Hamas from further punishment, after the German had battered the former Penn State luminary terrifically.

Schmeling, former world title-holder, was cold and ruthless. He proved himself a master boxer but still lacked the "killer" blow to keep the rugged Hamas on the canvas for a real knockout.

The fight was a scheduled 12-rounder.

Hamas fought a tiger but Schmeling, who critics said was at the peak of form, [illegible].

He has improved tremendously since he defeated Walter Neusel, the German battler, while Hamas was believed by experts to have been underrated. He had been in this country only three weeks before the fight.

Ace Marksman

Veteran marksmen today lauded the shooting skill of 13-year-old Dick Shaughnessy of Dedham, who thrilled members of the Hilltop Skeet Club by shooting a perfect score of 25 with a 28 gauge rifle.

Comment

Hamas Wants 'Rubber'

Hamburg, Germany, March 11—Steve Hamas was despondent today, following his defeat at the hands of Max Schmeling.

"My arm was in bad shape and gave me a lot of trouble. Now the score is even. Max has promised me a return fight."

Schmeling meanwhile paid great tribute to the gameness of his American opponent. He commented:

"Steve is one of the hardest hitters and bravest fighters I have ever encountered. I am looking forward with great confidence to the match with Baer."

B. C. Attack Wide Open

Dinny Mac to Lay Emphasis on Laterals, Forwards and Other Colorful Plays

By John R. McNamara

AS TOLD TO WALTER KILEY

[illegible] that the best offense [illegible] defense. My own [illegible] to the modern [illegible] of football is that the best defense [illegible] offense.

It is color that appeals to the spectators today . . . Wide open play with a lot of fancy frills . . . Laterals and forward passes . . . Something tangible that the non-expert can understand . . . The spectacular offense where passes are thrown on any part of the field or on any down . . . This is what made Colgate and Andy Kerr so appealing to the crowds last year.

The offense will be stressed at Boston College next year . . . I intend to open up the game . . . Diversify the attack . . . And pack as much color into the scoring plays as possible.

Frequent use of laterals and forwards is not as impractical as it may sound . . . The biggest value lies in the fact that it spreads the defense and opens holes so that the running attack proves far more effective.

I have a pretty fair idea of the material on hand at University Heights . . . And we have a lot of fine boys coming up from the freshman team . . . As matters now stand, there isn't one letterman on the squad sure of his position.

A player to be on my team must give everything he has all the time . . . I want pep and fire and aggressiveness . . . There can be no lagging . . . The boys must first prove they want to play football . . . Loafing is out . . . Either they take their football seriously or they will be cut from the squad . . . There can be no halfway measures.

My plan [illegible]

Every boy is a different personality and a problem by himself. They react in varying ways to the same situation . . . To me, each is a study.

[illegible]

Boston College players have wonderful spirit . . . They must have to overcome the difficulties they meet in a day college . . . I feel sure that as soon as we swing into the coming season we will find the combination which will give us our share of victories.

I want my boys to [illegible] for victory . . . It is very fine to be a good loser . . . But don't ever let anyone tell you that it isn't far more fun in winning.

CYNIC CONVINCED BY WAR STORY

STARTS AS SERIAL TOMORROW

"It is the only book I've read on the war that presented it as it was to a young normal American."

That was the tribute paid by Louis Bromfield, author, to "Heaven High—Hell Deep," the thrilling story by Norman Archibald, which starts serially tomorrow in the Boston Evening American. Bromfield continued:

"A good many manuscripts come my way with all sorts of recommendations, so that, in spite of everything, I become cynical about them. Some of that cynicism was at work when I opened 'Heaven High—Hell Deep.'

"I began reading it about nine in the evening and finished it at 2 o'clock in the morning—all in one sitting. I can't say how fascinating I found it.

"It is the only book I read on the war which presented it as it was to the young normal American. I think it has an immense value as a document written by a human being rather than a writer.

"By that I mean that its simplicity and directness gives it a huge literary quality without any of the self consciousness and the art which any professional writer would inevitably put into such a book."

FLOYD GIBBONS' PAGE OF THRILLS AND MYSTERY

"Dragon in the Mud"

Gripping Tale of Tropic Terror Told by Bay State Man

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

Strike up the band, here comes a sailor. Yep! Here in Jack Tar, himself in the person of Frederick K. Minor, of 118 Bonner street, Willimansett, late of the cruiser Montgomery, U. S. Navy. And Fred, by the way, is one enlisted man who doesn't share the gob's prejudice against officers.

FLOYD GIBBONS

As a matter of fact, Fred will go so far as to admit that they ought to have officers in every navy, and, back of that revolutionary theory of his, there is a grim and gripping story.

For one day, back in the summer of 1904, an officer with a quick head and a sharp eye—and a convincing way of handling a rifle—saved Fred from a fate so terrible that he shudders every time he thinks of it.

It was one Saturday afternoon in July. The Montgomery was anchored in the harbor of Porto Bello, Panama, and Fred was getting ready to go ashore with a liberty party.

The harbor, in those days was wild and lonely. There was no settlement in Porto Bello as there is today.

So Fred, thinking that a swim would be a good idea, put on swimming tights under his white uniform and climbed into a launch with 30 or more other men bound for shore and a run about the decks of old Terra Firma.

Fred was the young[illegible] man aboard ship, and undoubtedly was, since the most [illegible]. He began taking off his clothes as soon as he got [illegible], and when it was about 200 feet from the beach he dived overboard and struck out.

"Last man in the water is a sissy"—or words to that effect. Then he began swimming toward the beach.

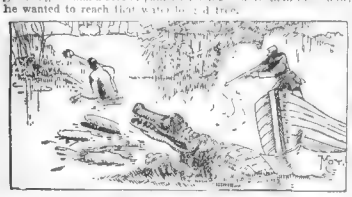
As Fred dived overboard the launch changed its course to avoid hitting him when he came up, and continued on toward the beach at an angle to the route Fred was taking.

Fred struck out straight for shore, and he hadn't been swimming very long before he remembered that there were sharks in these southern waters and maybe it would be a good idea to get to land as quickly as possible.

The nearest part of the shore, it seemed to Fred, was a waterlogged tree, floating in a tangle of vegetation straight ahead of him.

He swam toward this and, in a minute or two was surprised to find under his feet not hard beach sand, but a soft, muddy bottom into which his legs sank almost up to his knees.

The water itself was up to [illegible] and the soft ground gave him a sort of [illegible]. Now, since he was, he wanted to reach that waterlogged tree.



He redoubled his efforts, [illegible] as fast as nature of the ground would [illegible].

He was within six feet of the log—was reaching out a hand to touch it, when he was treated to the most horrible sight he had ever seen in his life. The log moved—sprouted a huge tail that shot into the air and lashed the water.

A large, ugly mouth filled with serrated rows of gleaming teeth, opened at one end of that "stick of wood" and a huge crocodile turned and came heading toward him.

Fred screamed with horror and began running toward the boat which, by now, was heading in to shore about 500 yards down the beach. He floundered through the water for a few steps, then stumbled and fell on his face.

Up to now he [illegible] about the crocodile, but [illegible] shipmates about [illegible] pointing [illegible].

To his dying [illegible] will never forget [illegible] then flashed through his [illegible] terrible feeling [illegible] crocodile was upon him [illegible] would snap him up with voracious bite, and [illegible] into deep water.

That thought—that sensation—lasted just the smallest fraction of a second. If it had lasted longer Fred would have lost his mind. But suddenly he heard the sharp crack of a rifle behind him and turned to look.

A hundred feet away [illegible] in a small boat. He [illegible] service rifle of the day, and [illegible] himself a crocodile.

At length Fred [illegible] and suffering from [illegible] hitting the huge [illegible].

Eventually [illegible] the boats surrounded [illegible] soon they spotted it, [illegible] water, its profile showing [illegible].

Now there's another sad story in connection with this crocodile. They [illegible] it, packed him and took him to the ship. Then they took it aboard and started to skin him, because there were sundry gobs around who wanted to have bags and suitcases made out of his hide.

The skin was taken off, scraped and salted, and then it was rolled up in canvas and stowed away on the forecastle. But in the course of several days, that skin began to smell like almost anything except six dozen American Beauty roses.

That smell rather offended some members of the crew and one night, at a late hour, an ominous splash occurred alongside the ship and, to the chagrin of certain persons aboard, they never had the opportunity to make traveling bags out of the hide of that particular crocodile.

There's a 10-dollar bill waiting here for people who send in yarns as good as Fred Minor's. So hop to it, boys and girls, and declare yourselves in on the gravy. Tomorrow I'll be right here at the old battle grounds with a bird of a yarn.

HOLLAND HUSTON Opens Final Week at Colonial

By GEORGE HOLLAND

This week will afford Boston's last opportunity to see Walter Huston as a stage actor for at least two years.

When "Dodsworth" completes its tour, Mr. Huston will be absorbed for many months in the job of transferring his stage conception of the Big Business Man on Vacation to the screen.

Then, his press agent feels convinced, Mr. Huston will cease his daring interpretation of "Othello" which he created last summer in Denver during the New York run of Dodsworth and which he later repeated in New York with Jean Sundergaard. Mr. Huston's wife, who appears with him in "Dodsworth" will play Desdemona to her husband's "Othello."

George Holland

This according to their press-agent, too.

Here we take pause. To tell or not to tell? To tell will do no harm. Mr. Huston, at the minute perhaps that you will be reading this, will be busy on the stage of the Colonial theater with many of his fellows in the cast of "Dodsworth" rehearsing a play which is certainly not "Dodsworth" and most certainly not "Othello."

Today's rehearsal is not the first. The play has been busy for many days memorizing the lines of a new play by a new author, and if "Dodsworth" were going to linger longer than next Monday at the Colonial Theater, Boston would probably get a chance to see the star in a new role. The part is an adaptation from a novel by a new author. The author: Young Phil Huston. Mr. Huston's son. If I were to identify the preceding more closely I should be intruding on Mr. Huston's privacy. If he wished the particulars of the undertaking to be detailed in print I feel sure he would have called me with the news. So, sketchily, you have the facts.

The National Guard Air Corps, 200 strong, will attend "Dodsworth" Holiday" at the Plymouth Theater tonight in honor of Bebe Daniels, who is an honorary member of the corps. The boys will step out in military regalia—wings on lapels, I understand. Ben Lyon, Miss Daniels' husband by the way, is a transport flyer. He holds one of the early commercial pilot licenses and will get in some hours in the air this week from East Boston airport.

Gyles Isham Given Contract; Jack Benny for Screen

Los Angeles, March 11—The name is Gyles Isham and all I know about him is that I saw him in London a few years ago and all the English gals were talking about him. He played in "The Iron Duke" with George Arliss and on the stage with Lillian Braithwaite. He belongs to an old English family but that needn't discourage Hollywood, for he is a real person and a swell actor and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer knew it when they signed him on a long term contract.

Comes the announcement that Gyles has completed his first picture with the name Paramount on the lot. Gyles is going to be starred in "Peter Ibbetson" as he was in "The Iron Duke" and I suppose somebody will write a story around Gyles' personality. How will it be? I don't know.

Claire, who is Mrs. Clark Gable, went to the ball with Mrs. Gable's mother, Mrs. Ada Lucas, and Mrs. Lucas' son, Bill Lucas. Claire was the only one who danced. Mrs. Gable and Mrs. Lucas were content to watch the others dance. Honoring she was not invited to be entertained by all the old Jordan Hall was the scene of one of the most buoyant of the People's Symphony concerts yesterday as a appreciative audience heard a program in commemoration of the 250th anniversary of Handel and Bach. The orchestra was again under the direction of Fabien Sevitzky.

The program consisted of the Overture to Act I of Handel's oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus," the Air and the Wine Music from the 18th century composer blended. Bank Bill Criticized By League

By Universal Service

Washington, March 11 — The American Bankers' Association and the American Liberty League today swung independent body-blows to the administration's Fletcher-Steagall banking bill.

Directing particular criticism at the second of the three sections of the act, the Liberty League charged it would give the President autocratic powers over the nation's money system, finances, and the Federal Reserve banks. The league added that:

"It 'opens the door' to unsafe banking."

The bankers' statement was more circumspect, but suggested that the revisions in the national currency and credit system, proposed by title two of the measure, be held up until it can be "more adequately studied."

The bankers provided a special committee to study the matter, and asked the Brookings Institute of this city to make a thorough survey of the banking situation and the proposed legislation.

CURB MART Irregularly LOWER

By Associated Press

New York, March 11—Trading was quiet and price movements irregular on the curb market today.

Minor gains were shown by American Gas, Hiram Walker, Hygrade Sylvania, Pan American Airways and A. O. Smith. Among shares selling lower were Hazeltine, Niagara Hudson Power, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Swift Internacionale.

Metal stocks which gave the market occasion for more activity at the en dof last week, were neglected in early trading and changes were small in allexcept Lake Shore Mines, which yielded a full point on small lofferings.

TREASURY MOVE

Sound

Orderly

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The United States Treasury has taken the first step to provide a more orderly currency system, which will incidentally save a tidy sum in interest payments.

By calling the consols and providing the Federal Reserve with gold certificates, against which it may issue its own notes, the Treasury will be wisely putting some of its gold profit to work and save some $13,500,000 yearly. The acquisition of the gold certificates will widen the actual currency base, since the Reserve Bank has the right to issue currency backed by gold to the amount of 40 per cent.

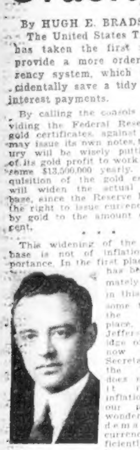
This widening of the currency base is not of inflationary importance. In the first place, money has been legitimately created in this way for some time. In the second place, Thomas Jefferson Coolidge of Boston, now Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, does not think it represents inflation. For our part, we wonder if the demand for currency is sufficiently great to guarantee that new Federal Reserve notes will replace national bank currency as it is withdrawn from circulation. The alternative is that the gold notes will lie idle in the bank.



T. J. Coolidge

Notebook: The New Deal is at the cross roads in the opinion of the United Business Service of Boston . . . It must either consolidate its position with the conservative forces or yield to left wing elements . . . Decision on the first named course would disperse current fears of business men and end prevailing uncertainties . . . In view of the unrest abroad last week, it is worth calling attention to the behavior of stock prices . . . Regardless of inflationary implications occasioned by the fall in the pound, the only group to advance in London were golds.

The optimistic reports coming from the motor centers are catching the attention of the various financial districts. The question is if the motor makers expect to do a big volume of business how can one avoid the conclusion that they must expect general trade conditions to average higher. At the same time, their activity will bring prosperity to many related lines. Despite curtailed profits it does seem the auto shares are not over priced.

* * *

Briefs: Most unique business expansion note so far is the intention of tire makers to provide pneumatic tires for tractors . . . And the big farm equipment firms are co-operating . . . Incidentally, despite a few rough moments marketwise, the outlook for tire makers is not so blue . . . It is tied in with motor activity and then seasonal demand for replacement will make an appearance in a few weeks . . . That talk on a dividend on Molybdenum is not just gossip . . . We hear the company is very seriously considering the matter.

Grains Weak

Chicago, March 11 (AP)—Smashing of season low price records formed the rule in all the grain pits today.

The chief reason was a drastic break of cotton quotations, nearly $10 a bale. Waves of selling orders swept over the grain markets at times, plunging wheat and corn down about 3 cents a bushel.

GOVERNMENTS

U. S. Governments remained quiet in the face of the treasury's announcement that it would use a part of the profit resulting from the devaluation of the gold content of the dollar by retiring $675,000,000 of 2 per cent consols and Panama Canal bonds.

COTTON SLUMP BLAMED

New York, March 11—A wide open break in cotton disturbed the stock market today and nipped in the bud a quiet rally.

After several issues, particularly motors and other industrials, had advanced fractions to around a point, an afternoon selling flurry erased the advance and drove several prominent issues down more than a point.

The decline in cotton, which amounted to more than a cent a pound, was accompanied by heaviness of grains, but bar silver, hogs and cattle were higher. Bonds were quiet.

Stocks showing losses of around a point included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Distillers, Cerro De Pasco and others, while Case and Union Pacific dropped about 2.

New York Central, Pennsylvania, Chrysler, American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric and many others dipped fractions under Saturday's closing levels.

Most Wall Street analysts are still a little concerned over failure of more convincing signs of a spring pickup in building to appear, and a number feel that the second quarter of 1935 will have to do pretty well to better the second quarter of 1934.

Nevertheless, it was agreed in several quarters today that the new week had started a little more hopefully than the last.

Steel Operations

Most quarters in Wall Street viewed favorably the Treasury's announcement of use of $642,000,000 of the "profit" from dollar devaluation to retire national bank notes. Inflationists, however, got little if any encouragement from it. A number of quarters in the financial district looked upon it as a sound money gesture.

It was recalled that the move was along lines which have been recommended by such "hard money" men as Dr. Edwin W. Kemmerer.

Week-end business news was largely favorable, "Steel" reported that steel works operations had risen to 50 per cent of capacity, up 2 percentage points.

It added, however, that "tending to destroy confidence and delay a large volume of business are the national political squabbles now in progress."

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of U. S. Steel, said in his annual report to stockholders, "The outlook is considered encouraging."

Announcement of Pacific Gas' $45,000,000 refunding operation, following the $43,000,000 refunding announced by Swift & Co. last week, bolstered hopes that the capital market was at last being reopened.

In early transactions, the pound sterling rallied ⅝ of a cent to $4.76⅝, while the French franc receded .00½ to 6.67½ cents.

Stocks in Boston Are Lower

The Boston Stock Exchange experienced another session of quiet dealings today. Fractional changes on the offside predominated.

New England Telephone was a soft spot yielding 1½ to 94. Other utilities were unchanged to fractionally lower.

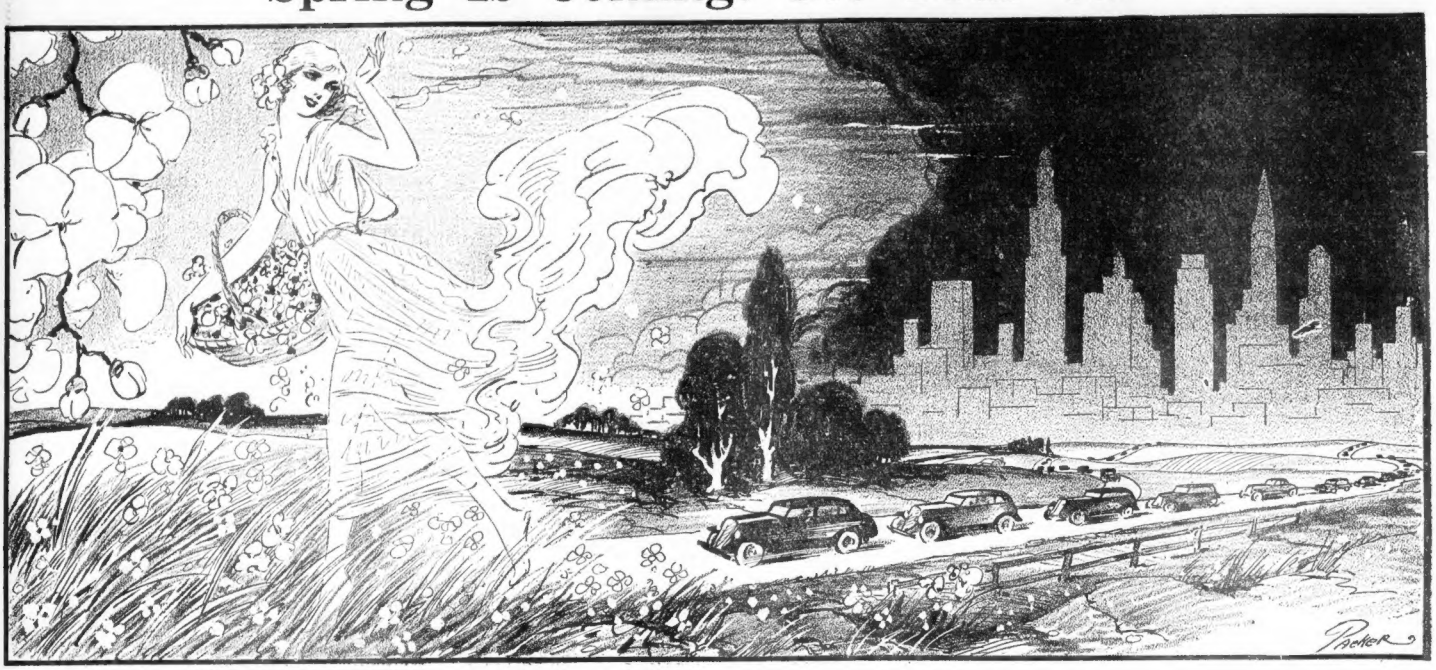
NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1935

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION BY MORE THAN 80,000

Spring Is Coming. Get Your Car!



Soon, "April with its showers," will be here. Have your car ready.

This picture reminds you that winter is fading, spring is near. Soon the sky will be blue; hills and mountains on one, ocean and beach on the other, will invite you: smooth, hard roads, stretching north and south, and from ocean to ocean, will call you.

Have you thought of your 1935 car? Have you seen the new models, ridden in them, tried them? Do you know about the extraordinary luxury, convenience, inexpensive up-keep, low prices, easy purchasing terms?

Everywhere spring is welcome, but the welcome is only theory for the family without a good automobile, to go as far as the family chooses, bring it back without trouble or delay.

This newspaper feels that happiness for the American family depends on possession of a good automobile, to keep the family united in its pleasures, making every part of the country accessible to all the family group.

Because we believe that family happiness depends on the possession of a good automobile, we advise our readers to see the 1935 cars, and buy one. You have but one life to live here; a good automobile adds years to each lifetime, and multiplies its pleasures.

Watch the Wire!

The People's Business

BLONDIN crossing Niagara Falls on a wire with a man on his back was just an old smoothie compared to the sight that Uncle Sam presents at the present time.

There are 22,375,000 persons on the Federal relief payrolls—about A SIXTH of the total population.

During the first eight months of the current fiscal year Uncle Sam lived $2,249,923,235 BEYOND his income.

The gross public debt is now $28,525,994,362—$2,500,000,000 HIGHER than last year.

If the wire of our credit should ever snap, Uncle Sam, who is doing a Blondin with this TRIPLE BURDEN on his back, would fall into the Devil's whirlpool, from which no man has ever been fished.

There is no business enterprise in the world today that is being run as INCOMPETENTLY as the people's business—the U. S. A.

All for New England

Three Bills in Congress

Three bills were introduced in Congress one day last week, all to aid New England.

Senator Walsh introduced a bill to prohibit cordage importations from the Philippines.

Its passage would notably protect the century-old cordage plant at Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims.

Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island asked legislation to make the frigate Constellation into a national museum at Newport.

Congressman Moran of Maine would add three more vessels to the Coast Guard fleet. Cost, about $900,000.

Protecting our essential domestic industries is commendable. The Walsh bill does this.

Adding to Newport attractions increases our patriotic assets along with tourist trade.

And stiffening the Coast Guard defense against the rum runners should be even better than a self-supporting Federal proposition.

Live Long, Ever Young

In Old Vermont

Examples of longevity from Cape Cod and the North Shore have figured prominently in the news recently.

And now we hear from Vermont. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Guild of Chester, both of Coolidge stock, recently observed their 65th wedding anniversary.

The celebration coincided with that of Mr. Guild's 86th birthday. The Guilds were born in Chester and have always lived there.

If the New England Council collected a record of our happy elderly people, it could prove to Summer visitors that such towns as Chester are just synonyms for health.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

SHOULD WIVES GROW UP?

"When I was your age," my mother-in-law snapped contemptuously, "I had three children, did all the work in my ten-room house, helped my husband in his business and wore a cap. A white, ruffled cap. All young wives did. Wives took themselves and their position seriously — then!"

Elsie Robinson

She stopped with an angry snort. I continued to sniffle. It was 1903.

I was 19, just married, and wanted but two things in all this great world—to go back to California where I could dance and to buy eight yards of pink dimity for a ruffly dress.

Simple desires they seem now. But at that time I might as well have confessed that I was a confirmed killer with four nicks in my gun. Dancing parties and pink dimity, indeed! And I a married woman!

IN OLD DAYS

From which you may gather that marriage in 1903 was a ghastly serious business for a young woman.

A bride definitely and finally stopped Being a Girl the moment she said "I Do." She not only stopped doing the things a girl did but she stopped dressing like a girl, thinking like a girl, desiring girlish things.

Any young married woman who tried to "stay young" and insisted on playing around was regarded as somewhat simple-minded if not downright immoral.

There were, to be sure, certain mature honors and privileges which were supposed to compensate for the sacrifice of one's youthful zest. But at no time was a married woman regarded as anything but completely and entirely a Missie.

But today! Pick up any woman's magazine. Page after page filled with information on How To Stay Young. And direful warnings to brides who permit themselves to look like married ladies.

Only 1903 to 1935—but how far we have come! Or have we?

Today the proud new bridegroom calls the Dear Little Woman "Baby" and she not only accepts the title but proceeds to live up to it. Thousands of brides air their troubles to this column in the course of every month.

THEY'RE BORED

Nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand have the same complaint—they're bored. What on earth are they to do with themselves, now that they've given up their jobs and gone to housekeeping?

Settle down and have a baby? Frewhake, they don't want to have a baby—yet!

"Why, I'm just a kid! I wouldn't know what to do with a baby. And my husband—Say, I bet Al would be mad enough to leave me if I even suggested such a thing. Besides—I've got to have some fun first. I simply couldn't take it. I'd go crazy—honest I would—being cooped up all day with a baby."

"But your mother was two years younger than you when you were born."

"Oh, yes—but that was different. She didn't want to do anything else. We modern girls aren't like that."

And it's the truth—they are different. But is that a compliment—or a slam?

These pretty, gay, carefree youngsters who at 20 boast that they don't look "a day over 16" . . . these "size sixteens" . . . are they a blessing or a blight?

Play girls—and delightful ones! But what is the Youth Cult doing to the home, to business? To the human race?

"Too restless to stay at home . . . "too young" to settle down and have a baby. So what?

My policy has been to cultivate peace with all the world.—George Washington.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, March 11—Diary! Out and came upon Edison Marshall, back from Thibet and other wild stretches of the earth. Then over to Jack Dempsey's place for breakfast, it running open 24 hours a day like old Jack's on 6th avenue. Home to find Baird Leonard called and sorry to miss her.

Wrote my essay and talking to Clarence Budington Kelland and Grantland Rice and Grantland told me of starting a game of golf with Arthur Somers Roche the day he was stricken with his fatal illness along the links. And Charles Phelps Cushing came with some startling night pictures of Times square.

To dinner with Dick Berlin and A. J. Cronin, the English writer, and his wife, and they to some fine-feathered hall and we to a theater. And afterward walked to the corner with John Chapman, mightily spruced up in a silk topper, and his lady. To bed reading Ryley Cooper's grand "Ten Thousand Public Enemies."

There is an amusing juggle of history in electric lights on Broadway in the 60's. For many years the two buildings in the block were called the Hotel Marie Antoinette and under a single management. David Belasco was a resident for years.

Then came a managerial dispute; the south end of the block protested against the north end making further use of the name "Marie Antoinette." The case was taken to court and the north end lost and had to haul down its name. When a new name went up it was "The Dauphin"—the long lost child of Marie Antoinette.

Personal nomination for the American actress having the staunchest following—Katharine Cornell.

Milton Berle continues to be the stage's No. 1 Smart Alec and the most expert handler of hecklers along the most heckling high road since Julius Tannen went away. Wherever he appears there is usually a deflationist or so to fly the javeline. Berle takes on all comers and rarely loses a joust.

Just when they are about ready to kill him, he disarms them with a loutish smirk. Off stage he is a mamma's boy and seems to be without the slightest artifices. On stage he's the sharpest of worldlings. They say he swipes every line and gesture. Certainly his mussy hat is Ted Healy's idea.

Overheard from one of two pretty maids at a Grand Central train gate:

"You kiss him first—you know him better than I."

The Howard Chandler Christy murals in the bar at the Hotel des Artistes are among the big surprises in the town's drinking dens. The other afternoon a gentleman dropped in, glanced about the walls and somehow stumbled to his knees.

"Probably my art," murmured Christy, sitting at a corner table, "it often knocks 'em cold."

Likely the two most romantic newspapermen in the eyes of the craft are Walter Howey and Charles MacArthur. They are larrikin's of the rip-roaring Chicago "get the story or don't come back" era. Those were the days when city editors were pitiless slave drivers in the office and boon companions outside.

Incidentally, it is noticed nearly all the graduates of that slapbang school have attained prominence in a dozen different fields. They mastered the art of getting.

Bagatelles: Carolyn Wells, doomed to die by doctors two years ago, is entering her third year in improved health . . . Donald Ogden Stewart will be a guest clown on the Douglas Fairbanks world tour . . .

Katherine Brush turns in the neatest of all typed manuscripts . . . Joseph P. Kennedy takes one of his nine children to a matinee every Saturday . . . Aimee McPherson has become a social rage in Shanghai . . . When Arthur Train is stuck with a plot he takes a night trip in a cross country bus.

One of those non-stop bell pushers has gone into a Pisa tower lean at the front door. And an open-faced pie in the ice box suggests the swellest idea. Skoo-sh!

Defeat for Death

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

"The baby had died twenty minutes before birth. At delivery there was still no heart action. Adrenalin was injected directly into the heart muscle.

"Within ten seconds the heart was beating spasmodically and one half hour later, after the employment of heroic measures of artificial respiration, the baby was alive."

Edwin C. Hill

Such is a dispatch originating in a hospital in Malone, New York. The case is undoubtedly without parallel in the history of medicine.

Yet it is but one in a thousand attesting to the remarkable properties of the drug called adrenalin, which is symbolized in chemistry as C2 H13 NO3, and which is a preparation of the dried, powdered and refined secretions of two small glands of the body.

Two recent reports of its action come to mind. One was that of a baby in California which had died of lead poisoning, only to be revived and to live six more days.

The other, from Kansas City, told how a sixty-four-year-old merchant had died on the operating table and was brought back to life and fully recovered.

STOPPING OF HEART

Perhaps it is not correct to say die in these cases. What is meant is that the heart had stopped, which the medical profession as well as the layman had in the past come to recognize as a certain sign of death. Adrenalin has shown us otherwise.

The adrenals are two flat, yellow, ductless glands about two inches long and shaped like cocked hats.

They lie above the kidneys and have some function which is necessary to life because animals from which they are removed die within forty-eight hours.

They pour their secretions into the blood stream, and they are described by the eminent Dr. Lorens of Vienna as the "glands of combat."

"The adrenals," he says, "once thought to be merely little lumps of fat, take a very important part in the play of life forces. The active principle of this gland is adrenalin.

"It is thrown into your blood in a steady stream when the sensation of fear comes.

"Nature thus makes an effort to flood your body with the chemical basis of courage.

"The coward then may be merely a person deficient in a reserve stock of this valuable substance of which valor is made."

CAT ILLUSTRATES

In anger, as well as in fear, these glands come into play, causing the hair to rise, dilation of the pupils of the eyes and a rise in the blood sugar.

When a cat is cornered by a dog you may notice the play of the adrenal glands as they make pussy's back go up and her fur stand on its ends.

Adrenalin has been in use only 35 years, and was first employed for bloodless surgery.

When applied to living tissues it drives away the blood, removing largely the danger of hemorrhage in operations on the nose and throat.

When injected into a weak or dead heart this light brown powder raises the blood pressure through the contraction of small arteries and gives the heart a squeeze, sending the blood ahead.

I can never read or hear of adrenalin without thinking of one of the finest characters it has been my good fortune to meet. He was a Japanese, born of the great Samurai clan, but his field was medicine rather than war.

There will be a monument to him some day, and on it posterity will read:

Dr. Jokichi Takamine

The Discoverer of Adrenalin

Stars and Stripes

The first day of Spring comes by calendar, not by wish.

North Shore weather prophet says Spring is "just around the corner." Don't discard your overcoat or mislay your galoshes!

Robins are returning, and will build nests in many trees more than six stories high. Elevator strikes don't bother the birds.

Some farmers are awaiting government orders to start their Spring ploughing-under.
